New Satellite Try Ordered

Launching To Take Place In Daylight Hours Friday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A new attempt to launch a tiny test satellite was ordered today, to get under way in daylight hours tomorrow.

The announcement came from the Defense Department information chief, C. H. Schooley, at the outset of a news conference.

Schooley said the launching attempt would be made some time after 7 a.m.

The conference was two hours later than had been initially planned, while military and scientific planners conferred.

J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of the launching project, said the new attempt would involve a shortened countdown of probably six or seven hours

This contrasted with the 11-hour basic preparatory period or countdown of the first try yesterday.

Walsh said the 11-ton, 72-foot launching missile had not been completely defueled, thus making possible a shortening of the preliminary checking period.

Walsh said the main item in refueling is the liquid oxygen, which gave the greatest difficulty in the original try because of a leaky valve.

The valve leak and a cumulation of lesser troubles, along with winds of an unusual shearing effect possibly capable of twisting or toppling the rocket, forced abandonment of the proposed test launching of the 6.4 inch "gamma" baby moon Wednesday night, only 50 minutes short of the target hour assigned to it.

Walsh said there was no surefire guarantee that the Vanguard would be fired tomorrow.

Blast Wrecks Four Stores; Six Killed

Treatment for Burns Twenty Persons Get After Georgia Fire

VILLA RICA, Ga. (AP)—An explosion wrecked four stores in this small west Georgia town today and early reports said six bodies were removed from the wreckage. Fire followed the blast.

Twenty persons suffering from burns were brought to the Villa Rica Hospital. Fire enveloped wreckage of the stores and fire departments were called from Atlanta and other nearby towns. The fire was reported under control an hour and a half after the 11 a.m. blast.

The blast was believed to have been caused by gas. Flames swept through a drug store, a ten-cent store, a jewelry shop and a dress shop.

Fire trucks were called from Atlanta, 40 miles to the east of this town of 1,700, and from Douglasville, Carrollton and Bremen.

Doctors were called in from Carrollton and other nearby towns to help with the injured.

First reports said the explosion was in the drug store.

The explosion demolished the Berry Drug Store, the Empire 5 & 10 cent store, the A & B dress shop and the Reeves jewelry shop. The stores adjoin in the three block long business district.

Sen. Hennings Is Reported In Good Shape

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Thomas Hennings (D-Mo), who suffered a mild cerebral spasm while presiding at a Senate committee hearing here yesterday, was reported in good condition today at Beekman-Downtown Hospital.

A hospital spokesman added that the senator was resting comfortably.

Such an attack is usually defined by physicians as constriction that pinches off blood to a portion of the brain.

The latest word on the senator's condition was that he was "fairly comfortable," and that it was hoped he could be released from the hospital today.

Hennings, 54, collapsed yesterday during a hearing by the Senate subcommittee on juvenile delinquency, of which he is chairman. He suddenly pressed his hands to his head, let out a groan and then went limp in his chair.

The senator revived and was heard to say: "I had this once before. They called it cerebral spasm." He was removed on a stretcher.

Joseph Peters, administrator of the hospital confirming Hennings' own diagnosis, said the senator had suffered "a mild cerebral spasm, recovering from the symptoms in a minute or two." Peters said "it was definitely neither a heart attack nor a stroke."

The subcommittee hearings were adjourned indefinitely after Hennings' collapse.

Moisture Is Expected To Move Into State

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Moisture is expected to move into Missouri Friday along with mostly cloudy skies and colder weather.

Southerly winds are bringing up moist air from the Gulf and colder air is expected to release it in the form of rain in the southwest part of the state Friday afternoon.

Wants Mental Health Chief Picked Soon

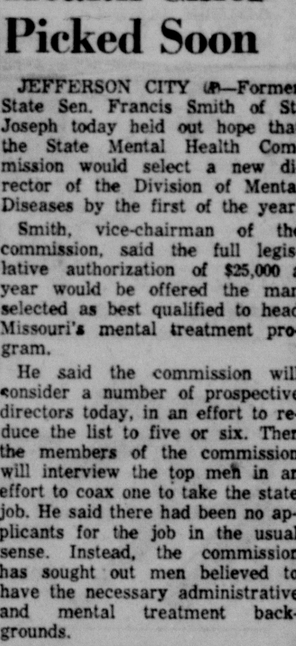

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Former State Sen. Francis Smith of St. Joseph today held out hope that the State Mental Health Commission would select a new director of the Division of Mental Diseases by the first of the year.

Smith, vice-chairman of the commission, said the full legislative authorization of $25,000 a year would be offered the man selected as best qualified to head Missouri's mental treatment program.

He said the commission will consider a number of prospective directors today, in an effort to reduce the list to five or six. Then the members of the commission will interview the top men in an effort to coax one to take the state job. He said there had been no applicants for the job in the usual sense. Instead, the commission has sought out men believed to have the necessary administrative and mental treatment backgrounds.

Smith presided today as chairman. Powell B. McHaney, the chairman, was killed yesterday in a Washington, D.C., traffic accident. Gov. James T. Blair said he did not know when he would appoint a replacement for Mc Haney.

History of Union Is Reviewed

Sedalia Typographical Union Observes Its 75th Anniversary

The 75th anniversary dinner of the Sedalia Typographical Union, No. 206, held Wednesday night in the garden of the Old Missouri Homestead, was attended by about 60 members and guests, and throughout the good relations between labor and management in the printing industry was emphasized.

The evening opened with a cocktail hour at 6 o'clock.

Invocation was given by William C. Bergmann prior to the 7 o'clock smorgasbord dinner.

Herbert Emo, president, presided and gave a brief history of the union, which he stated was chartered on Dec. 26, 1882. A few years later the original charter was destroyed and the replacement was presented to the local on Sept. 9, 1890. Charter members were: Sam Elbert, Al Corum, Hugh Fitzgerald, Charles Burnett, Lew Birtnett, George Elliott and Louis Goodrich. The international organization, said Emo, is 105 years old, and was started in New York City.

Emo then introduced Clarence Robertson, vice-president, George Espelin, secretary-treasurer, and Mace Ayres, sergeant-at-arms.

Toastmaster of the evening was William A. Burton, president of the Missouri Typographical Conference, who introduced the guests.

Burton said that members of the International Union fought on both sides during the Civil War and still held together and they came west in covered wagons.

Here to attend the anniversary dinner was Otto C. Botz of Jefferson City, who was a former member of the Sedalia local. Botz told the group he wouldn't have missed this for anything. His father before him was in the printing business and said that he himself fell for it at an early age. He was just a year old when his father came to Sedalia and was in a shop which was on the second floor of a building. When his mother took him upstairs to see his father, he fell down the steps. He went on to say that he went into the union before he was eligible. He became a member when only 19 and a person was supposed to be 20 before they joined, but by the time the union found that out he had started moving around and they couldn't locate him. By the time they did, he was 20.

Botz stated he had brought with him some old copies of Sedalia papers and in one of them was an article which said that typesetting machines would never be successful. We've gone a long ways since then, he said.

Also from Jefferson City were Ted Schneider, former secretary-treasurer of the Jefferson City Local 119, representing the local's president, and Donald Brown, present secretary-treasurer of Local 119.

Special guests were Mayor and Mrs. Julian H. Bagby, Chief of Police and Mrs. Edgar Neighbors, Mrs. Ed Mullaley and Mrs. Claude Yankee, widows of members of the local.

Short talks were made by K. U. Love, business manager of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, who told of the good relationship between labor and management at the newspaper; Stanton Hudson of the Sedalia Times, who is an all-around newspaper man but stated he would rather be a printer and create with his hands than anything else; George S. Scruton, editor of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, who told of his father, Col. George H. Scruton, who was a newspaper man before him and of whom it was said at the 25th anniversary of the Union here: "Col. Scruton has always been a friend of the union."

He stated, like his father, he hoped that his friendship with the union would be long lasting. William Hurlbut of the Hurlbut Print-

Prices Increase, Too

Equal or Better Christmas Trade Volume Is Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Department field representatives reported today that Christmas trade over much of the nation will equal or surpass last year's volume.

However, at least one of the department's field office managers, David Jamieson of Philadelphia, said price increases account for most of the 3 to 4 per cent dollar boost forecast in his area.

The field managers gave their assessments of Christmas buying as they met here for their annual briefing on department operations. Their appraisal covered 30 states.

The Commerce Department recalled that December retail trade in 1956 reached $19,400,000,000—a record for that month. The department also said figures thus far show the volume for the first nine months of 1957 running 6 per cent ahead of last year.

In 13 cities, field managers' Christmas business forecasts were on the upside. In 10 others, conditions were rated even with a year ago. A drop was predicted in eight.

Cities listed as on the plus side were New York, Philadelphia, Charleston, S.C., Detroit, Dallas, Phoenix, Ariz., Reno, Nev., Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cleveland, New Orleans, Jacksonville, Fla., and Greensboro, N.C.

In the unchanged group were Richmond, Va., Cincinnati, Chicago Memphis, Kansas City, Houston, Denver, Salt Lake City, Albuquerque, and Seattle.

On the down side from a year ago are Boston, Buffalo, Atlanta, Savannah, Minneapolis, St.Louis, Cheyenne, Wyo., and Portland, Ore.

Bulletin

A work stoppage was reported at the Whiteman Air Force Base on several construction contracts which use union labor. Pickets were established at the base by laborers of Local No. 1125, Warrensburg.

It was reported pickets were established due to an Air Force contract for work on the runways by a contracting firm from Florida, which does not use union labor.

The labor union is reported as objecting to the hiring of non-union laborers. The picket line will cause approximately 150 union workers to stay off their jobs on the new housing development, and other projects on the base, it was estimated.

St. Louisan Will Direct The Council

ST.LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A Midwestern Baptist pastor who likes to climb mountains, the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg of St.Louis, today was elected president of the National Council of Churches.

He is the first Baptist ever to head the big cooperative Christian organization, which includes 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations with about 37 million members across the nation.

Ten other top officers also were elected at the council's triennial General Assembly, its chief policy-making conclave. They will serve until the next assembly three years hence.

Dr. Dahlberg succeeds the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, administrative head of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Dr. Dahlberg is a leader in the American Baptist (Northern) Convention and has twice been its president. But his local congregation, the Delmar Baptist Church, is affiliated both with the American and Southern Baptist conventions.

"A church with a Northern accent and Southern exposure," it has been called.

The Southern Baptists, along with the Roman Catholic Church and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, are the only major U.S. denominations not in the council.

Dr. Dahlberg, a scholarly but warm-natured man, is an avid mountain climber at 64. On vacations he often spends days alone, scaling 14,000-foot peaks in Colorado. He says he likes the solitude as well as the heights.

Concordia Voters Reject School Bond

Voters in the Concordia Reorganized School District for the fourth time defeated the $250,000 school bond for additional facilities on Tuesday.

The proposal included facilities for vocational agriculture, a cafeteria at the high school, an auditorium and music room.

The vote was 742 for the proposal and 577 against. This was the largest number of votes ever cast in the Concordia area.

Lloyd Phillips is general chairman of the parade which is sponsored by the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce of which William Solon is director and Robert Wall, general chairman.

There are four divisions of floats — churches, women's organizations, junior division and civic organizations — with two prizes in each class and two honorable mentions in each class.

Polio Victim Awaits 'Ham' Yule Greetings

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—This is an invitation from Cliff Corne to 1,000 Christmas Day callers.

He's already expecting 100.

Cliff is 19. The past eight years of his life have been spent in an iron lung, the result of a polio attack.

He can move only his head and a thumb. But he's reached out and made friends all over the world.

Cliff operates amateur radio station K9EAB, Peoria. In the two years he's been a licensed operator, he's contacted 1,500 other ham operators throughout the United States and in 166 foreign countries.

His right thumb manipulates the transmitter key and a microphone attached to his iron lung. On a wall map, his parents mark the location of every new station contacted with a colored pin.

Cliff's been promised high frequency Christmas greetings from 25 or more ham operators who are business associates of his father. About 85 members of the Wabash Valley Amateur Radio Assn. of Terre Haute, Ind., also are scheduled to call.

Air Force Postpones Speed Record Attempt

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force has postponed until next week its planned assault on the world air speed record.

The attempt to better the record of 1,132.1 m.p.h. held by Great Britain originally was to begin today. But an Air Force announcement late yesterday said it now will be started next Tuesday or Wednesday, depending on wind conditions.

Train Crash Claims Over 100 Lives

Salvage Crews Move Through Nightmare Scene of Wreckage

LONDON (AP) — Rescue workers today said approximately 100 persons died in the rush-hour crash of two trains taking commuters and Christmas shoppers to their homes in thick fog last night.

Salvage crews, moving through a nightmare scene of fog and twisted metal, brought out 80 bodies. They said 25 to 35 bodies still were trapped in the mangled coaches.

Police said more than 200 others were injured, including 110 seriously hurt. Determination of the final toll of dead and injured may take several days.

Arms and legs of still bodies protruded from the windows and shattered roofs of the coaches. The rescue crews said there was no hope that any still remaining in the wreckage were alive.

"This is going to be a long job. We haven't even started," said a member of one salvage gang.

Tarpaulin screens were erected along roadways overlooking the scene in southeast London to hide the wreckage from passing motorists and the curious.

Horrible as the wreck was, it just missed being even worse, for a third train almost was involved.

An 11-coach steam train drove into the rear of a 10-coach electric train halted near St. John's Station. The impact shot cars into the air and brought down part of an overhead viaduct which carried another electric rail line.

An eight coach electric train above was left with the front wheels of its engine hanging over the edge. Salvage teams early this morning finally removed the train above.

The two trains piled up and an overhead bridge smashed down on them early last night in near-zero visibility at a southeast London railway junction.

Government Taking Over Dutch Firms

Asks Dutch to Close Seven Consulates Throughout Island

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The Indonesians intend to evacuate thousands of Dutch citizens still living in this former Netherlands colony, Justice Minister Gustaaf Manegkom said today. His statement was made as the government announced it is taking over all the big Dutch businesses occupied by their employes.

The Dutch government was asked to close seven consulates throughout the sprawling island republic which won its independence from the Netherlands in 1949. Only the consulate in Jakarta would remain open.

Indonesia is pressing the Netherlands for surrender of West New Guinea, an area which the Dutch did not turn over when this country became independent. The latest Indonesian actions were part of this pressure campaign.

There are 46,000 Dutch citizens in Indonesia. Dutchmen own and operate the country's biggest and most strategic business firms.

Manekom said the government wants to evacuate all but skilled labor if possible, but even those in this class would not be prevented from leaving.

A government spokesman refused to comment on whether the government takeover of Dutch firms amounted to nationalization, or how many were involved.

Well-informed sources said it was not nationalization, but a face-saving move to solve a tricky situation. These sources predicted the Dutch would be back in control of their businesses before many days.

The Cabinet decree taking over the firms said they would be controlled by a council of management under government supervision.

Four AF Bases On East Coast Will Get Bomarc

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four East Coast Air Force bases have been selected for construction of the first launching sites for the Bomarc, the nation's newest missile designed to knock down enemy bombers.

The Air Force reportedly feels about 15 such sites would provide antiaircraft coverage for the East and West coasts and the nation's northern boundary. The Bomarc can cover a wide area and travels faster than sound.

However, although it is designed to intercept enemy bombers as far away as 300 miles and as high up as nearly 12 miles, the Bomarc would not be effective against ballistic missiles.

Plans to build the first Bomarc launching sites were announced last night by the Air Force. It said it had signed contracts totaling 46 million dollars for work at Dow Air Force Base, Maine; McGuire Air Force Base, N.J.; Otis Air Force Base, Mass.; and Suffolk County Air Force Base, Long Island, N.Y.

Girard Pays Japan $31.60 As His Share Of Cost of Trial

CAMP DREW, Japan (AP) — William S. Girard today paid Japan $31.60 for his share in the cost of his 10-week manslaughter trial.

The payment was to defray expenses of the 11 Japanese witnesses in the trial, a 56 cent fee for each appearance plus carfare ranging up to 84 cents a day.

The Maebashi District Court had ordered the Illinois GI to pay these expenses at the same time it gave him a three-year suspended sentence for killing a Japanese woman scrap collector on an Army firing range.

The court's verdict excused Girard from paying the total trial costs because of his financial position.

The bill was presented today and Girard promptly gave the money to an Army official to forward to Maebashi. Girard and his Japanese wife sail for the United States tomorrow on an Army transport.

Girard's controversial case cost the army an estimated $90,000. The cost to Japan of the prosecution and trial has been estimated at about $3,000.

Former Pettis Lady Subject Of Column

Mrs. J. B. Cartwright, former Pettis Countian, was the subject of George Dolan's column, "This Is West Texas," in the Oct. 12 issue of a Fort Worth, Tex., newspaper. The clipping was sent by Mrs. Cartwright to Mrs. Tom Raines of Nelson.

Following is what Dolan wrote:

"Spring rains sneaked up on Mrs. J. B. Cartwright, who forecasts weather for onion slices.

"'I hit the nail on the head,' she says defensively, 'in 1954, 1955 and 1956.' Her forecast for this year has December labeled wet, so maybe she won't fail completely.

"Mrs. Cartwright, with the help of onion slices peers into the coming year each New Year's Day.

"She has a cardboard with 12 holes, each representing a month. She puts an onion slice in each hole, adds a teaspoon of salt and then inspects them before sunup on New Year's Day.

"She finds moisture standing in some of the slices. That indicates a wet month.

"Others—the majority, naturally—are dry. Some are damp, which indicates some rain that month.

"'You're supposed to set the board outside where the wind won't blow on it,' Mrs. Cartwright grins.

"She generally set it in a bedroom and raises a window. Last New Year's Eve she set it in the kitchen and opened a window.

"Maybe that explains the spring error?

"'No,' says Mrs. Cartwright, Mrs. E. M. Raugh of Alva, Okla., who has been doing it for 50 years, got exactly the same message from the onions that the Perryton forecaster did.'

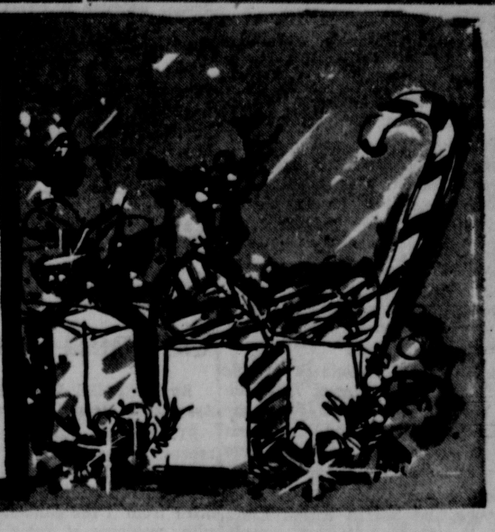

"Mrs. Cartwright borrowed the system from Mrs. Raugh, although she never met the Oklahoma woman.

"She read a story in 1953 about Mrs. Raugh's forecasts, clipped it out and told herself: 'If I live until next New Year's Eve, I'm going to try it'."

Police Think Missing Girl Was Kidnaped

SYCAMORE, Ill. (AP)—The communitywide search for a missing 7-year-old girl continued today as the FBI joined the hunt and police expressed belief evidence indicated a kidnaping or sex crime.

Police said they had found no clues in the search for the child, Maria Ridolph, who was reported missing early Tuesday night while playing near her home.

FBI agents declined to comment on the case but reportedly they questioned operators of filling stations, merchants and teenagers in Sycamore and nearby communities.

Hundreds of volunteers in this northern Illinois city of 7,000 aided authorities in hunting for the little dark-haired girl. Airplanes and two-way radio cars also have been pressed into the search.

Both Police Chief William Hindenburg and Sheriff Alfred Diesz said it appeared almost certain Maria was kidnaped. Her mother Frances said she believed her daughter, who was last seen in company with a strange man about 24 years old, is dead.

"I hope it's not a sex crime, but I'm afraid it is," Hindenburg said.

Police have found no clues. Searchers found a man's shirt, with what appeared to be blood stains, about a mile from Maria's home. It was sent to the state police crime laboratory. The FBI sent the missing girl's doll, found near a garage near her home, to the FBI laboratory in Washington for examination.

Shortly before Maria's disappearance she was playing near her West Side home with a neighbor girl, Cathie Sigman, 8. Cathie told police a man approached and said: "I'm Johnny and I'm married and I'm 24 years old." He asked the girls if they wanted a piggy-back ride. Cathie left to get her mother's permission and when she returned Maria and the man were gone.

Venison Feast At the Home Of W. H. Thompson

By Mrs. Russell Kendrick

KNOB NOSTER — Mr. and Mrs. Wells H. Thompson and family entertained with a venison dinner at their home east of Knob Noster Tuesday night. The deer was furnished by R. H. Utley. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kendrick, Mrs. Ina Richeson and R. H. Utley.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Crowder entertained with a dinner at their home Sunday. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crowder, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kueker, Barbara and Martha Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Kueker and David, Shackelford, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Perkins and Mrs. Rose O'Neal, Sweet Springs, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Woolsey, Tommy and Debbie, Versailles.

The employees of the Knob Noster postoffice received Asian flu shots last week.

Mrs. Robert Hyde, Patricia, Jan, Ivan and Denise, of Barry, Ill., are visiting her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Higgins, Melba and Billy.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vaughn and family were Harold Finke, LaMonte, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Roberts, Mrs. Keith Hansen, Melvin, Kathrine and Gaye, Knob Noster.

Woman Pleas Guilty To Secure Bathtub

CONNERSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A woman prisoner who insists she's innocent has pleaded guilty to forgery and asked to be sent to prison because there is no bathtub for women prisoners in the Fayette County jail.

The grand jury cited the case in recommending that the jail be improved or a new one be built. Sheriff Lester Enochs said there is no bathtub in the three-cell women's section.

Race Problem Is Church Council Topic

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—A widely representative council of American Christians today searched their sacred heritage, seeking to draw from it the guidance to cope with problems of racial relations and "the space age."

Proposed resolutions on these, and other contemporary issues, were up for action at the Triennial General Assembly of the National Council of Churches.

The Assembly, representing 300 Protestant and orthodox denominations with 37½ million members, also was expected to elect the Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, a Baptist pastor of St. Louis, as Council president, to serve the next three years.

Race relations was the main theme of deliberations yesterday, with the Rev. Dr. Liston Pope, dean of Yale Divinity School, declaring churches are making slow but steady strides toward ending segregation.

He said about 10 per cent of America's congregations now are interracial—five times the percentage of a decade ago. By this figure, about 30,000 of the country's 308,864 churches now include both white and non-white members.

"Slowly, how slowly, the mending of the breach proceeds, but it does proceed," Dr. Pope said. "It will not stop until the seamless robe of the church is whole again."

From the South, came contrasting reports.

Francis P. Miller, of Charlottesville, Va., a Presbyterian layman and president of the Virginia Council of Churches, said race relations in his home state and other Deep South states are steadily deteriorating.

He said white extremists are "in power in my state because they are well heeled and well financed" by wealthy northern conservatives, and are working to foment "race emotion . . . prejudice and . . . fear."

Those attending the luncheon other than William and Mr. Taylor were: F. M. LeValley, District Manager of Standard Oil; J. C. Scrivner, District Sales Manager for Standard Oil; C. M. White, Smithton High School principal; Hubert Finley (father); Leland Finley (brother); Mrs. Ted Dabner, Community leader of the Striped College 4-H Club; Opal O'Briant, County Home Agent; Merle Vaughan, County Agent; and Owen Fox, associate County Agent. William's mother and Fred Staley (tractor project leader) were unable to attend.

Rocket Made From Pipe Kills Teacher

FLOYDADA, Tex. (AP)—A rocket made from a piece of pipe blew up during a high school chemistry class experiment yesterday, killing the teacher and injuring seven students.

Garland Foster, 40, the teacher and a former employe of the Atomic Energy Commission research center at Los Alamos, N.M., was killed.

Keith Hollums, 16, and Jerry Crawford, 17, were seriously injured. The other five had more minor injuries. Three more were treated for shock and released. Hollums had several teeth knocked out and suffered other mouth injuries and was hospitalized here. Crawford suffered ear and face injuries and was taken to a Lubbock hospital for surgery.

Dennis Whitfill, 18, a member of the class who was only a few feet from the explosion but escaped injury, gave this account: "The teacher used to work at the Atomic Energy Commission research center at Los Alamos and had learned about rocket fuels.

"We had mixed together carbon, potassium chlorate and sulphur and placed it inside this one-foot-long piece of pipe. The ends were capped with a hole in one end.

"We had twine tied to the rocket, which was on a roller skate, and had planned to hold it back with the twine. Later, the teacher said, we would make a stronger fuel, and might even try to launch the rocket."

S-H Celebrates Homecoming; Civics Club Is Chartered

Tuesday night was an eventful one as the Gremlins celebrated their homecoming. A large crowd turned out to witness the battle between the varsity and the "old folk"—the alumni.

In the volleyball game the varsity won a decisive 46-11 victory over the alumni, while the boys won their game 57-47, giving the varsity a double victory.

Ruth Ann Bahner was crowned the 1957-58 Activity Queen by Don Ressel, basketball captain, at half time. Her escort was John Buckley. The attendants to the queen were the following: Hannalora Taylor, junior, escorted by John Boul; Catherine Mehl, sophomore, escorted by Jon Grinstead; and Betty Martin, freshman, escorted by Bill Roe. A dance was held in the cafeteria following the games.

The basketball and volleyball teams travel to Green Ridge Friday to meet the Green Ridge Tigers in a conference game.

The Sacred Heart Civics Club has received its official charter from the Commission on the American Citizenship in Washington, D.C. The charter formally recognizes affiliation of the local unit with the national organization headquarters at the Catholic University of America.

Pupils of the freshman class comprise the club membership. The officers of the newly organized club are: Katherine McGrath, president; Barbara Curp, vice-president; Patricia Hogan, recording secretary; Dave Rouchka, corresponding secretary; and James Farris, sergeant-at-arms.

Explain Picture Frame Refinishing

Tanglenook Neighborhood Extension Club met Nov. 26, at which Mrs. John Newland and Mrs. Charles Hieronymus gave a lesson on picture frame refinishing.

Mrs. Clarence Williams gave some highlights on a trip she and her husband had taken covering 11 states.

The meeting places for next year were passed out and the news letter was read by Mrs. John Bronson.

Guests were Mrs. Clark Hieronymus and Mrs. Henry T. Hellmus of Port Allegany, Pa.

The next meeting will be Dec. 17, at the home of Mrs. Charles Reine which will be a Christmas party. There will be a 50 cent grab bag.

Communist Union Heads Suspend Drive

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Communist union leaders today called off their drive to take over leading Dutch firms in Indonesia, bowing to pressure from moderate government chiefs.

Red union flags came down from the buildings of the KPM shipping lines and three Dutch trading companies seized by the workers Tuesday and yesterday.

Dutch circles considered the situation much calmer and most business proceeded normally. But union pickets still harassed three Dutch banks and retained the keys to safes and account files which had passed back and forth between the bank directors and the pickets during negotiations.

Premier Djuanda's government disclaimed responsibility for the union seizures and warned that severe action would be taken against those taking over Dutch firms without official sanction. The government obviously was alarmed at the possible effects on Indonesia's precarious economy from the workers' action against the biggest foreign investors in the island republic.

The seizures began during a strike against Dutch firms ordered by the government in support of its demand to take over West New Guinea from the Netherlands. The Communist leaders seized on the occasion to further their own campaign for nationalization of all Dutch interests and expulsion of most of the 46,000 Dutch nationals from the islands.

The Cabinet continued discussion of possible regulations for the repatriation of Dutch wanting to leave Indonesia. Exit visas for all such have been held up since the anti-Dutch campaign developed.

President Sukarno returned from his summer palace at Bogor to attend a government conference on the crisis. He traveled with a heavy bodyguard as a result of the attempt to assassinate him last weekend.

Firefighters Seek to Hold Gasoline Blaze

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Fire fighters today battled to restrain a raging fire that destroyed seven storage tanks containing more than a million gallons of gasoline and left one refinery worker missing and presumed dead.

Officials at the Ingram Oil and Refining Co. plant in suburban St. Bernard Parish (county) estimated damage would total more than a million dollars.

The fire was brought under semicontrol late last night when five plant workers dashed into the center of the blazing oil field to close a valve spewing raw gasoline into the flames.

A supply of a fire-fighting chemical was flown in from industrial and military centers in neighboring states. The chemical was shot on the blazing tanks through fire hoses at the rate of about 18,000 gallons per hour.

The missing man was identified as William Welch, company pumper and gauger.

Company chemist Alden Frederickson said the fire started with the cave-in of a 14,000 barrel blending tank containing about 13,000 gallons of gasoline.

The smoke was visible for miles. Families were evacuated from 24 nearby houses.

F. B. Ingram, vice president in charge of the plant, credited the action of the five men in closing the valve as the turning point. He said it was difficult to control the blaze because the tanks were connected in the refining process and products flow from one to the other.

OBITUARIES

Edward A. Burnett

Edward A. Burnett, 71, of 2512 West Main, died at 7 p.m. Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital, Kansas City, where he had been a patient the past two months. He had been in ill health for over a year.

Mr. Burnett was born Sept. 6, 1886, at Marshfield, Wis., and moved to Sedalia in 1931, since which time he had been engaged in the meat and packing business, part of which time he resided in Kansas City. On Sept. 5, 1920, he was married to Miss Nell Chaney in Kansas City. In 1936 he built the Burnett Packing Co. plant on the West Main Street road and operated it until his retirement in 1951.

Mr. Burnett was a member of BPOE Lodge 125, Sedalia.

He is survived by: his wife, Mrs. Nell Burnett; two children by a former marriage, Frank W. Burnett, Sedalia, Route 3, and Mrs. Kenneth Groft, Marshfield, Wis.; a sister, Mrs. Ella Landt, Milwaukee, Wis.; and four brothers, Henry, Manitowoc, Wis., Harry, Rawlins, Wyo., William, Kaukauna, Wis., and John Burnett, Melrose Park, Ill.

The body was brought to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel where funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, the Rev. Harry Purviance, pastor of the First Christian Church, to officiate.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery, with ritualistic ceremonies of the Elks at graveside.

Harry L. Goldberg

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Goldberg, and son, Harry, Jr., 3019 East 12th street, have returned home from Tucumcari, N. M., where they were called by the death of Mr. Goldberg's father, Harry Louis Goldberg. Mr. Goldberg died on Nov. 29, 1957.

Mr. Goldberg was born in New York City, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1872 the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Louis Samuel Goldberg. As a young man he enlisted in the Navy, in which he served several years. After being discharged from the Navy he came west and at Gentry, Kan., he was married to Myrtle Mary Weger, and they moved to Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Goldberg resided in Kansas City for more than 40 years, leaving Kansas City only a few years ago for New Mexico to reside with their daughter, Mrs. John Weir.

Mr. Goldberg had been ill for several years before going to New Mexico for his health.

He is survived by: his wife; two sons, Harry A., of Sedalia, and Louis Samuel II, of Denver, Colo.; and his daughter, Mrs. Weir. Also surviving are two grandsons, a granddaughter, a brother, Louis Samuel Goldberg, Jr., and a sister in New York City.

Funeral services were held at the Dunn's Funeral Home in Tucumcari, with the Rev. J. N. Whetstone, pastor of the Methodist Church.

Burial was in Tucumcari Memorial Park cemetery.

Lee A. Peyton

Lee A. Peyton, a brother of Roy Peyton, Sedalia, died at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Kansas City where he had been a patient two weeks.

He was born in Fayetteville, Ark., and lived most his life in greater Kansas City. He was a veteran of World War I. He had been employed in the pipeline division of the Sinclair Oil Co. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Peyton of the home, and five brothers, Roger Peyton, West Line, Mo.; Neal Peyton, Chilhowee, Mo.; Roy Peyton, Sedalia, Mo.; Marion Peyton, Fort Smith, Ark., and Verne Peyton, of Kansas City.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Friday at the Newcomer Chapel in Kansas City and at 3 p.m. at the graveside in the National cemetery at Wadsworth, Kansas.

Jonas Lester Thomas

Jonas Lester Thomas, 59, of Bunceton, died Dec. 4 at his home. Death was due to a heart attack.

He was born March 11, 1898, near Pilot Grove, son of James and Mary Thomas. He was married to Sarah Molmberg in Sedalia. He was a member of Mt. Nebo Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, of the home, one son, Jewell, Bunceton, one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Nelson, Bunceton, and a brother, James Thomas Bunceton.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Mt. Nebo Baptist Church, with the Rev. Farrie Cole, Jr., Otterville, and the Rev. P. L. Allen, Pilot Grove officiating.

Pallbearers will be Lloyd Edwards, Jack Todd, Herbert Rodgers, Cloyd Merk, Kenneth Brumback and Robert Chamberlin.

The body will remain at Hays-Painter Funeral Chapel, Pilot Grove, until one hour before the service.

Burial will be in New Lebanon Cemetery.

Mrs. Lorene Harvey

Mrs. Lorene Harvey, 217 East Pettis, died at 11:40 a.m. Thursday at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born at Arrow Rock, Mo., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey, and had been a resident of Sedalia the past 20 years.

Surviving are: a step-father, Sylvester Montgomery; three sons, James Green in the Army stationed at Seattle, Wash., Nathaniel Hawkins, Jr., New York, and Tommy Lee Hawkins, of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Susie May Allen, Sedalia, and Mrs. Maxine Dixon and Miss Joan Hawkins, of the home; five grandchildren; a brother, John T. Harvey, Detroit, Mich.; and other relatives.

The body was taken to the Alexander Funeral Home to await completion of funeral arrangements.

Tossed Cigarette Has Unfortunate Results

NEW YORK (AP) — An explosion attributed to the careless tossing of a lighted cigarette butt into a big gas main undergoing repair yesterday touched off a tower of flame and injured three persons.

Flames shot five stories high after the blast near Times Square, at 40th Street and Broadway. Thousands gathered at the scene despite a snowstorm.

Firemen put out the blaze by pouring water into the trench—15 feet long, 3 feet wide and 4 feet deep.

Sedalia Typographical

ing Co., told the group there was nothing that gave him as much satisfaction as working with the Typographical Union.

Harry Walch, a stockholder in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, stated he remembered the anniversary 25 years ago at Convention Hall at which he and his father, the late Charles Walch, catered.

Miss Mary Ellen Merrill, with the Acme Printing Co., said that this company had always been a union shop even though it was started five years before the union was organized in Sedalia. Others introduced and who made brief talks were Mr. and Mrs. George H. Trader, D. Kelly Scruton, and Charles Scruton, all directors of the Sedalia Democrat - Capital; Frank Deady, Jr., of the Full Cry Magazine; Henry Shepherd, retired Democrat printer who was the head man of the anniversary celebration last time, and Mrs. Shepherd; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hendricks, Full Cry; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Buell of Windsor, Mr. Buell being a printer at Clinton; and Mrs. Inez Baker of the Sedalia Times.

The memorial service was given by O. B. Poundstone for the following members of the local who have died during the years: Charles Botz, A. G. Burton, C. S. Cotton, Ben Crummett, H. S. Frazer, L. S. Fessenden, J. P. Hurtt, S. B Kennon, D. A. Rocheford, Claude Yankee, Ed Mullaley, Miss Alice Scott and Murris Walker.

Several members, said Poundstone, have marked "30" — the printers' symbol for "the end"—after their printing careers, and have all played a great part in the printing industry, the local, and the community. No one, he said, ever gave more for a community than did Charlie Botz, holding many civic offices and giving many hours for which he never received pay but he left an imprint on the City of Sedalia. Ed Mullaley, he said, did more for labor relations with employers than any man he knew. There was a great gulf between the two, and in his quiet way Ed bridged it and created, too, better relations between members. Claude Yankee, said Houndstone, was always willing to help on anything and one of his great loves was baseball. A. G. Burton, he pointed out was always a fine member of the local and he would be proud today of his son, William A. Burton, following in the same line. Murris Walker, he said had a great dream and lived long enough to start Full Cry, which is one of the greatest animal magazines in the Midwest.

Burton then read two communications, one from J. Albert Dear, of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, who was unable to attend the dinner, and the other from the Columbia Typographical Union, Local 160, from which representatives also could not come to Sedalia for the celebration.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Emo, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Poundstone, Clarence Robertson and George Espelin.

Members of the arrangements committee were Mace Ayres, William A. Burton and William C. Bergmann.

Union shops in Sedalia are Acme Printing Co., Full Cry Publishing Co., Hurlbut Printing Co., Rogers Printing Co., Sedalia Times Publishing Co., and the Sedalia Democrat-Capital Publishing Co.

A run by the Sedalia Fire Co. at 7:28 p. m. Dec. 4, to the Presbyterian Church, 520 South Osage, was caused by a damper closed on a stove pipe. There was no damage reported.

• Other Fires

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the residence of Clarence Shoemaker, near Beaman, shortly after 2 p. m. Wednesday. The house was owned by Charles Danforth and is located 1 mile north and one half mile west of Beaman.

The blazing house was first noticed by neighbors, who called the Pettis County Fire Department at 2:30 p. m. The house was virtually destroyed upon arrival of the fire department. Shoemaker was in town at the time.

Shoemaker's loss was estimated at $800. No dollar value of the house was given.

• Accidents

A two car collision occurred at 5:32 p. m. Dec. 4 when a 1957 Ford, driven south on 65 Highway by Mrs. Elburn Clony, Green Ridge, collided with a 1948 Ford driven West on 16th Street by Russel Gillmore, 1400 South State Fair Blvd., at the intersection of Highway 65 and 16th Street.

The left rear fender and deck lid of the 1957 Ford were damaged and the front bumper and fog light of the Gillmore car received damages. There were no injuries.

Two cars were in collision at Third and Park about 8:06 a.m. Thursday doing damage to both vehicles.

According to the police report the parties involved reported a school bus pulled out from a stop sign, causing one car to stop abruptly, and a car following hit the rear end of it.

The rear end of the Chrysler sedan driven by Lester J. Cramer, Jr., 508 East Tenth, was headed east and followed by Mrs. Agnes C. Harms, 2030 West Fourth driving a 1949 Pontiac tudor. Mrs. Harms reported her foot slipped and her ankle was hit as she started to apply her brake.

The rear end of the Chryster was slightly damaged and the front end of the Pontiac damaged. The front fenders of the Pontiac were sprung back in such a manner that both doors of the car could not be opened.

Picture Journey To Japan, Korea Made By Lions

A most interesting word and picture trip to Japan and Korea through the Mediterranean Sea to Turkey, through the Suez Canal, Red and Indian Seas, was given the members of the Sedalia Lions Club at their noonday meeting Wednesday. Dr. T. Spencer Hopkins, who served in the U. S. Navy Medical Corps as a liuetenant, presented the program.

With the showing of the pictures Dr. Hopkins gave a short descriptive talk.

The speaker was introduced by James Durley, program chairman.

The Lions were host to the Airmen of the Month from the Whiteman Air Force Base. The following were guests A-1c Robert L. Hone, Headquarters Squadron, 340th ABG, A-1c Carter R. Hurd, 340th Field Maintenance, and A-2c Billy J. Gilbert, 340th Air Installation Squadron. The men were introduced by S-Sgt. James H. Moon of the Information Services.

President A. B. Warren presided over the meeting and called attention to the money obtained through the exhibit of the Lord's Last Supper in wax in Sedalia last week. He also announced the progress of the fruit cake sales, the proceeds from which will be used in connection with the Crippled Children's Center.

Governor Is Asked To Urge Changes In New Juvenile Code

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. James T. Blair was asked today to recommend substantial changes in the new juvenile code when he calls the Legislature back into session next month.

Probate Judge Russell Mallett of Carthage, president of the Probate Judges Assn. of Missouri, wrote that his organization is unanimous in "contending that the code is unworkable in the third and fourth class counties and has thoroughly muddled the efforts of sheriffs and prosecuting attorneys in combatting juvenile delinquency."

President Eisenhower Hopes to Get Long Weekend for Resting

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, "feeling fine" after two busy days of conferences, hopes to travel to his farm at Gettysburg, Pa., today for a long weekend of rest, weather permitting.

Yesterday, for the second day in a row, the President put in several hours conferring with congressional leaders regarding the administration's 1958 legislative program.

The leaders reported him looking well and said they noticed no evidence of the slight stroke he suffered Nov. 25. At the end of the day, the White House physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, sent word to reporters that the President was "feeling fine."

The President's doctors have ordered him to take it easy for several weeks, but his work load the last couple of days has been just about what it was before he was stricken.

Knob Noster Couple Safe After Overcome By Carbon Monoxide

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Leeton, Knob Noster, were overcome by carbon-monoxide at their home Sunday night. Both were made violently ill and had to be taken to the home of a neighbor, Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Thompson, where they remained until Tuesday evening.

Mr. Leeton awoke about 12:30 a. m. Monday morning, and feeling ill attempted to reach the light switch and collapsed on the floor. His fall aroused their son Russell Leeton, who was asleep in his room and he pushed to his father's aid.

Mrs. Leeton, was also made ill and the commotion partially aroused her.

The son summoned a doctor and medical treatment was rendered and the Leetons then went to the Thompson home.

Russell did not become ill due to the fact he sleeps in his room with the doors closed and the windows open, wide.

Mr. Leeton returned to his work Tuesday and Mrs. Leeton who teaches in the Knob Noster grade school will resume her duties Thursday.

It was reported the home is heated by natural gas and something became defective with the furnace, causing a leak of the carbon monoxide gases into the house.

Mrs. Leeton reported a new furnace was installed in the home on Wednesday.

Where Does Extra Money Come From?

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Where to get the money to pay for a stepped-up defense program is the question splitting public opinion today.

The seriousness of the missile age isn't questioned, nor is the need for more defense spending.

The debate is over raising the money.

One group favors hiking the federal debt limit above the present 275 billion dollars and borrowing more money, despite the admittedly inflationary results.

The other, particularly strong in financial circles, favors paying for more defense measures by economizing on other governmental programs.

Cutting back on these domestic spending programs will raise howls from those who believe that welfare spending isn't as big as it should be, anyway.

The economy group in rebuttal will point to what inflation already has done to the spending power of your dollar.

The inflationary threat arises because the administration would like to spend about two billion dollars more on defense and half a billion more on foreign aid.

The U.S. Treasury is already bumping the federal debt ceiling. Further, it faces the gloomy prospect that if a business recession deepens, both corporate and individual incomes will be smaller and income tax collections will shrink.

The Treasury, asked to spend more and facing a revenue drop, will have to turn to deficit financing—that is, operate in the red and pay its bills by borrowing, mainly from the commercial banks. This is where classic inflation starts.

The Guaranty Trust of New York in its December survey of business finds "There is too much reason to fear that the way which the nation will actually take will be the inflationary way."

Mighty Poor Excuse

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The judge read the police report concerning a man before him on a reckless driving charge:

"Driving 93 miles an hour . . . Fled from officers . . . Chased about a mile . . ."

"Why didn't you stop?" Municipal Judge Thomas L. Griffith Jr. asked.

"I couldn't, your honor," replied Ramon Butler, 23. "I didn't have any brakes."

"Five days and $50," said the judge.

Demos Call For Keeping Even Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Influential Democrats called today for military belt tightening to help provide added missile funds within the balanced budget President Eisenhower hopes to maintain.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate's Republican leader, told reporters after a daylong White House legislative conference that Eisenhower and GOP congressional chieftains are "all very hopeful there will be a balanced budet."

To attain that objective in the face of world conditions and defense needs, Knowland said, he expects present rates of corporation and excise taxes to be continued. The higher rates, in effect on a year-to-year basis since the Korean War started, expire next June unless Congress renews them.

Knowland said no over-all spending figure had been arrived at for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, but another conferee said the new budget is likely to be very close to the $71,800,000,000 estimated outlays for this year. This original estimate has since been raised 72 billions.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said he approves of the administration's budget - balancing objective. To help meet the additional two billion dollars in missile and other defense outlays forecast by administration leaders, Russell said some less essential military spending is going to have to be cut.

"I think that about 600 million dollars can be save by eliminating some of the duplication and waste in the military program," he said. "I certainly am opposed to deficit spending and to increasing taxes.

"But if it came to a showdown between deficit spending and more taxes, I would rather see taxes raised."

Sen. Carroll (D-Colo) said the Eisenhower administration is going to run into opposition in Congress if it attempts to cut out essential civilian services. Like Russell, he said he feels the military "can do a little belt tightening of its own in areas of overlapping, duplication and waste."

Unlike Russell, Carroll said he would rather see some deficit spending than to have economies in the domestic program that might accelerate the current business downturn.

Third Ku Klux Klan Member Is Convicted Of Mutilating Negro

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A 45-year-old former industrial worker became the third Ku Klux Klansman convicted of mayhem and sentenced to a maximum of 20 years for mutilating a Negro man.

Jesse W. Mabry was convicted and sentenced yesterday by a Circuit Court jury which deliberated about 58 minutes. His attorney filed notice of appeal and bond was set at $20,000.

Two others previously were convicted and given the maximum sentence in the castration of Judge Aaron, 34-year-old Negro handyman who was kidnaped, beaten and mutilated by Klansmen Labor Day night.

Three others remain to be tried.

Judge Alta L. King called the crime the worst he had ever heard of in 35 years as a lawyer.

Birthday Cake Gets Through Mail Unhurt

ROY, Utah (AP)—Attention Mrs. Lilly Aason of Baltic, S.D.:

Not one of the 11 candles was out of place.

Linda's cake came daintily decorated in a box with a plastic lid. Apparently the fragile shipment, which wasn't even marked for special handling, was a challenge to all postal workers along the way, said Roy Postmaster Emma Russell.

Little Linda, a fifth-grade student, had a wonderful birthday party earlier this week and the cake was the centerpiece.

Postmaster Russell doesn't recommend shipping any more cakes this way. Usually a parcel of this kind would be turned down—especially during the Christmas rush.

Eldorado Club Has Monthly Meeting

Eldorado Extension Club met Nov. 27 and held a discussion on food costs.

Mrs. Leo Spickert led in group singing and also gave the devotional. The news letters were read by Mrs. Ernie Eidson and Mrs. Dan Gordon. The club voted to purchase some new leather tooling tools. Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Buel Maxwell were recognized as being 4-H project leaders.

Mrs. Jiggs Prier and Mrs. Frank Hayes joined the club.

Mrs. Leo Spickert will entertain the club Dec. 18.

He's a Little Late

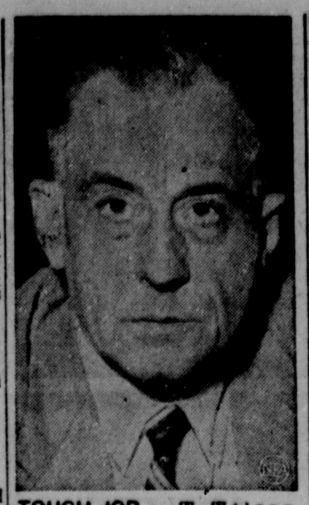

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Arnold Yerger walked into the police station and reported his wife Valene missing.

He described her as 23; 5 feet 2; 116 pounds; and blonde.

"And she had about $100 when I last saw her."

When was that?

"Oh, May 2," Yerger replied.

TOUGH JOB — W. Wilson White, an assistant attorney general, is President Eisenhower's choice to head up the new Civil Rights Division in the Justice Department. White, 51-year-old native of Philadelphia, will take over the federal direction of federal investigation and prosecution of civil rights cases.

States Bossy Boss Has Inferiority Complex

PITTSBURGH (AP)—If your boss starts throwing his weight around, he can't help it—he has an inferiority complex.

Dr. J. L. Rosenstein, an industrial psychologist, made the statement at a human relations seminar. He added: "People who have a strong sense of inferiority are always looking for someone to criticize. The supervisor, manager or personnel director who bosses people around is really covering up his own inadequacies."

Connor-Wagoner's $75,000 Fashion Stock Goes At Sacrifice Prices!

SMOKE DAMAGE SALE

Although we had extra salespeople, and we thought we were ready, we just couldn't take care of the large numbers who turned out for this sale. We invite you to come back now for there is still thousands of dollars of smoke damaged stock which must go at sacrifice prices.
The damage is slight, but we will not ask our customers to pay regular prices for stocks exposed to smoke from the Cook Paint store fire. We list here only a small portion of the items you will find tremendously reduced . . . for everything must go. Our stock includes all of our large winter and pre-holiday fashions!

Home Grounds Hints

Even though the urge to get outside and work in the yard isn't as enticing due to cold weather, there are some items that need to be taken care of even in this winter month.

December is the month to protect our roses for the winter. Mother Nature gives us the signal to get busy when she thoroughly chills the ground with the first deep freeze.

We need to pile up a cover around each rose bush of dry leaves, more soil, strawy manure or other non-absorbent litter. This is done to keep the plants frozen rather than to keep them warm, so be sure to wait for that hard freeze and then pile up the mulch to a depth of six or eight inches.

Since roses are cut back in the spring, you don't need to prune them now, except to trim the long whips which might lash about in winter winds. Climbing roses should be tied securely to their supports.

Evergreens need special attention, too. They also need to be mulched, but for another reason. Since evergreens have no period of as nearly complete rest as deciduous plants, they require a constant supply of moisture.

Therefore, they should be mulched before Mother Nature's first deep freeze so that they will be able to take in moisture. The mulch should consist of a four or five-inch layer of strawy manure, straw, partly decayed leaves or compost. An inch of peat moss or two inches of ground corn cobs or saw dust can be used too.

If you haven't completed the job of cleaning away garden debris and burning discarded tops, you need to do so to destroy the lingering pests.

Disconnect hoses and turn off outside water outlets, leaving the taps open to drip away condensation.

Finish the year with a favor to yourself by carefully cleaning and oiling all your tools for the next season's uses.

Care of Wood Finishes

At the time of year many folks like to get everything around the house shining and gleaming for that holiday company. Always one of the biggest jobs of cleaning is polishing the floors and furniture and yet with the right tools this job can be made much easier. Manufacturers have worked hard to put on the market products which will do the job thoroughly and yet make it as easy as possible for you. So why not take advantage of some of these?

When most of us think of taking care of anything made of wood the first thing we usually think of is wax. And right we are because the right kind of wax is an excellent way to protect wood. But even more than this, it also makes wood easier to keep clean and even in some cases does the actual cleaning.

You will notice we said the right kind of wax. Have you seen three different kinds of waxes on your dealer's shelf? Look for all three the next time you are in the grocery or hardware store. One you will find is our old standard paste wax. Another will be that easy to use self-polishing variety and the third is a liquid wax which requires polishing. This is usually called liquid buffing wax or may also be called a cleaning wax in many cases.

The liquid self-polishing waxes are fine to use on most floor coverings such as tiles or linoleums and of course, they're one of our biggest time and energy savers for use on these floors. But they may be dangerous to use on wood. The base of these waxes is water and any time water is used on wood there is a possibility it may raise the grain. So, it's probably better to save the self-polishing waxes for use on tile and linoleum but to consider one of the other types for use on furniture or wood floors.

That leaves the liquid buffing wax or the paste wax, and both of these are fine for wood floors or furniture. Paste wax, of course, takes a lot of hard rubbing to polish it well. But it also gives probably the longes. lasting protection of any of the waxes. So if you own or are able to rent or borrow an electric polisher, using paste wax for your floors may be your best bet. If not, the easier-to-use liquid buffing wax may be better for you.

Liquid buffing wax also makes a fine wax cleaner and can be used to take off excess coats of old wax that may have accumulated on your floors. It's also an easy product to use for cleaning and polishing furniture. It can simply be poured on in a small amount and buffed lightly when it is dry.

Of course, even if wood is waxed it still requires occasional cleaning. Usually this means dusting with a vacuum cleaner or untreated dust mop or cloth. One important thing to remember about dusting is that oil will soften wax. Therefore, an oil treated dust cloth should never be used on wood that has been waxed. Oil on wax produces a gummy film that may make you think the finish has been damaged. However, the film can be taken off with a wax cleaner.

On the other hand a soft cloth or mop that has been treated with an oil or furniture polish is a good way to clean furniture that hasn't been waxed. It is always important to be careful not to have too much oil or polish on the cloth. An excess leaves a residue on the wood that will collect dust and leave a cloudy film on the furniture.

If wood surfaces are finished with wax they may need to be polished occasionally to maintain their good appearance. Spots on a floor that has had heavy wear will need to be rewaxed once in a while. The liquid buffing wax is a good product to use for maintaining your furniture after it has once been waxed, or to use for keeping those floors looking good as new.

When a wax finish gets gummy or soiled, it may be well to remove altogether. If the coat is not too heavy, the liquid buffing wax will do this job and polish your wood in the same operation. If there is a very heavy coat of old wax a commercial wax cleaner may be the best thing to use for this purpose and then follow with a fresh application of wax.

Marine Enters Plea Of Innocence; Charged With Hitting Prisoners

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP)—Marine Pfc. Don B. Stansell of Little Rock, Ark., pleaded innocent today to court-martial charges he struck three prisoners in the U.S. naval brig at Sasebo, Japan.

He appeared before a special court-martial board headed by Lt. Col. W. E. Sperling. The court adjourned until tomorrow without reaching a verdict.

Green Ridge Has Double Win Tuesday

Green Ridge High School had a double victory Tuesday night, but both games were too close for comfort. The girls' volleyball team edged out Smithton 36-32, while the boys basketball game was a 48-47 point victory.

The games were Pettis Benton County Activity Association conference games. It gives Green Ridge a 7-2 record for the season's play.

In volleyball, Smithton's McMullin was the high scorer with 13 points, while Myrna Case led Green Ridge with eight points.

The Green Ridge boys gained a good lead in the opening quarter of 16 to 5, which proved worthwhile as the game progressed. Smithton came back in the second period to score 16 to 9 for a closing in at the halftime, Green Ridge at the halfway point leading 25 to 22. In the third stanza, Green Ridge stood off Smithton 15-10, while the final quarter saw Smithton put on a rally of 18 to 8, just short a lone point for a tie and two short of victory.

Edmundson was the high scorer for Green Ridge and the game with five goals and eight free throws for a total of 18 points as his teammate Kurtz came through with 6-2 for 14 points. On the Smithton side J. Monsees was high with one goal and nine free throws for 11 points, while Kahrs led the scoring with 5 and 2 for 12 points.

Friday night Sacred Heart will invade the Green Ridge court.

Wide Changes In Baseball Law Considered

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Sweeping changes in baseball law were up for decision late today at a closed meeting of minor league executives.

They debated such issues as the bonus rule and unrestricted draft while major league officials at the annual baseball convention bargained over player trades.

The bonus rule in effect since 1950 is expected to be scrapped. Major League player representatives at a meeting yesterday joined in demands for repeal.

A proposal for the unrestricted draft of four-year players was reported due for approval.

Those two issues were among 34 amendments to baseball law up for action.

The present rule labels as a bonus player any youngster who receives more than $4,000 to sign his first organized baseball contract. Major league clubs that sign a bonus player must retain him for two years. If signed by a minor club, the player is subject to unrestricted draft before his contract can be transferred to another club.

Major players object on grounds that keeping untested youngsters on major rosters for two years blocks out seasoned players.

Most major clubs — acting through their minor farms — are supporting repeal of the bonus rule.

The New York Yankees are a chief dissenter. General Manager George Weiss says: "This is an effort by clubs which do not throw initiative, effort and money into which are fighting to get somewhere year after year."

There is solid support for an ous handicaps for organizations unrestricted draft of four-year players. It is proposed by the executive committee, headed by Commissioner Ford Frick.

If adopted, the rule would permit unrestricted selection of all players reserved by minor league clubs of AA classification and higher after four years service in organized baseball. The same unrestricted drafting would apply to players with three years service on Class A league rosters and after two years on Class B and Class C rosters.

San Francisco Fans Leave to Be Able To View Home Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Perhaps 10,000 football fans from the San Francisco Bay area will travel out of the city and state Sunday to watch the San Francisco 49ers play a home game.

The 60,000 seat Kezar Stadium is a sellout and National Football League rules prohibit home television of home games.

So, thousands of fans are going outside the TV blackout area to watch.

More than 3,000 have booked airplane space to Reno and Lake Tahoe, Nev.

ALL-AMERICA FOOTBALL TEAM—This is the 1957 All-America football team, chosen on the recommendations of the 12 Associated Press regional boards. Selections took into account performances in all regular season games through Nov. 30. Alex Karras, Iowa tackle, was the only first team repeater from 1956. (AP Wirephoto).

AP Names All-America Team

By BOB HOOBING

NEW YORK (AP) — A halfback whose first field goal attempt made history, a "comeback" tackle and a senior giant making his varsity debut at center today were named to the 1957 Associated Press All America football team.

North Carolina State's Dick Christy is the electrifying runner whose 45-yard boot climaxed a record 29-point finish to his brilliant year and clinched the Wolfpack's first Atlantic Coast Conference championship.

Quarterback King Hill of Rice, bonus pick of the National Football League, Texas A&M's massive John Crow and elusive Jimmy Pace of Michigan complete the backfield.

Rated by Coach Forest Evashevski as a dismal flop as a sophomore, Iowa tackle Alex Karras has become one of the finest linemen in recent years. The 233-pounder from Gary, Ind., is the lone repeater from 1956.

Dan Currie of Michigan State was asked to plug a gap at center after two years as guard. The 6-3, 225-pound Detroit lad did it so effectively he was ranked No. 1 player in the area by the Midwest board.

The remainder of the line includes Jimmy (Big Red) Phillips of Auburn's national titlists and Dick Wallen of UCLA at ends, rugged Lou Michaels of Kentucky at the other tackle with Ohio State's Aurelius Thomas and Oklahoma's Bill Krisher manning the guard spots.

The team was selected on recommendations from 12 regional boards.

Hill and Crow represent the only paired backfield men from the Southwest Conference on the All America with the exception of the two-platoon year of 1951.

A 205-pound handyman from Freeport, Tex., Hill ran, passed, kicked and was outstanding defensively. Crow is a gifted 214-pounder from Springhill, La., who constantly amazed opponents with his speed, power and ability to make the big defensive play.

The 180-pound Christy set an ACC scoring record in "his" 29-26 victory over South Carolina fashioned on the field goal after time had run out. The Chester, Pa., flash couldn't be stopped. He rushed 626 yards, caught 10 passes for 211, returned kicks 363 and tallied 83 points.

Pace, picked by an eyelash over Michigan State's Walt Kowalczyk, is the Big Ten's leading scorer and ground gainer. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan calls Pace "Michigan's best running back since Tommy Harmon and Elroy Hirsch."

Kowalczyk, Bob Anderson of Army, Bob Stransky of Colorado and Lee Grosscup of Utah comprise the second-team backfield.

Phillips, a freckle-faced redhead at 205 pounds, caught passes for over 300 yards and four touchdowns but stood out even more as key man in the nation's top defensive line.

Wallen caught 20 passes for 303 yards, intercepted four aerials and recovered six fumbles.

Michaels and Karras, 236 and 233 respectively, are extremely mobile for their size.

Thomas led Ohio State to the Big Ten crown with his aggressive play.

Besides the bonus selection of Hill, Crow, Currie, Michaels, Phillips, Pace and Karras were selected in the first round of the NFL player draft.

Quarterback Newman Wins Total Offense Championship in 1957

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Bobby Newman of Washington State captured major college football's total offense championship in 1957 by a scant 19 yards — the smallest title-winning margin in 18 years.

The 21-year-old junior passed and ran for 1,444 yards in 10 games to edge runnerup Bill Austin of Rutgers. Final statistics released by the NCAA Service Bureau today showed that Austin accounted for 1,425 yards in nine games.

Dwight Nichols of Iowa State was a close third with a total yardage output of 1,419 in 10 contests. Nichols, a sophomore, took part in the most offensive plays, 311.

Bob Stransky, the Colorado tailback who topped the Big Eight Conference in rushing and scoring finished behind Nichols on total offense with 1,387 yards. Stransky was charged with responsibility for the ball on 215 plays. He gained almost 6.5 yards each time he passed or ran with the ball and averaged better than 138 yards total offense in 10 games.

Hardin-Simmons' Ken Ford finished with a flurry to emerge as the leading passer with 115 completions, 11 more than Newman. Stuart Vaughan of Utah caught 53 aerials to wind up as the leading pass receiver and No. 2 in all-time season listings.

Only once has the individual offense crown been decided by a narrower difference than Newman's 19 yards over Austin. In 1939 Kenny Washington of UCLA nipped Michigan's Tommy Harmon by 14 yards (1,370 to 1,356).

Lee Grosscup of Utah wound up with a .686 pass-completion percentage on 94 for 137. This is an all-time sharp shooting high, exceeding Harry Gilmer's .648 accuracy figure for Alabama in 1945.

Hubbard Seeks Third Basketball Victory Tonight

The Hubbard Tigers will be out to gain their third victory of the basketball season tonight when they meet Douglass High of Columbia. With victories over Green Ridge and the Hubbard Alumni, the Tigers are beginning to show signs of developing into a winning combination. Although the team is lacking in excessive height, it has experience, and speed.

Three regulars from last season, Eugene Sims, Ernest McFeders and William Cole are leading the Tiger attack with assistance from outstanding regulars up from the undefeated Tiger "B" Team of last year. L. Gray, L. Cole, L. Johnson, B Jones, C. Buford, and E. Johnson have added strength to the Tiger attack.

Douglass as always will be tough opposition for Hubbard. Both the "A" and "B" Team will see action with the "B" game starting at 7 p.m.

THE NEW ESSER'S—SEDALIA'S FIRST REALLY COMPLETE LIQUOR STORE

DICK ESSER

Same building—same location—same people, but just about everything else is new. Esser's of Sedalia is now in its 7th year of providing a liquor service to an ever-increasing number of persons.

That we have succeeded in satisfying our customers is proved in our record of constant growth through the years. Our large, newly remodeled store, conveniently located at 914 South Limit on South 65 Highway, is the most beautiful liquor store in the Sedalia area. A visit to this store is a gratifying experience—a real shopping treat. You will be amazed at the tremendous selections of liquors, beer, domestic and imported wines and liqueurs we are now able to carry in stock. In addition to the extras we have always offered, such as free parking, delivery serivce, drive-in service window, free recipe booklets, we are now able to bring to Sedalia the following "firsts"—

CHECK THESE ESSER FIRSTS:

✓ GLASSWARE TO LOAN— Punch bowl sets, highball glasses, champagne glasses, cocktail glasses. Nothing to buy. No charge. These glasses are here for your convenience and use. Please feel free to borrow them any time.

✓ COMPLETE WINE DEPARTMENT— Featuring a tremendous selection of domestic and imported wines and champagnes. Nothing like it anywhere in or near Sedalia.

✓ FREE ICE CUBES— Not just a special promotion, but a new, permanent service. The only requirement is that you must be 21 years of age or over. No purchase necessary. Limited to one 15c bag of ice cubes per person.

✓ COMPLETE GLASSWARE AND BAR GADGET DEPT— Everything for home entertaining—(and gift giving)—at reasonable prices. You'll enjoy shopping this department.

✓ INCREASED REFRIGERATION CAPACITY— This enables us to keep a wide selection of wines, mixers, whiskies and other liquors chilled besides, of course, a huge selection of domestic and imported beer

✓ CONNOISSEUR'S CORNER— This is a revolutionary departure from anything to be found in this area. In this little gold room are featured rare, unique, unusual liquor items. Just a few examples: Calvados (Apple Jack). Creme De Banana, Blue Curacao, Anisette, Yellow Chartreuse, Drambuie. D.O.M. Benedictine and B & B Advokaat and many more.

✓ CASE INSURANCE— No lower case liquor prices anywhere in the State of Missouri—not in Sedalia, or Kansas City or Warrensburg, or St. Louis, or Springfield, or anywhere in Missouri! That's our personal guarantee! And we'll give it to you in writing.

✓ SELF-SERVICE CONVENIENCE— Our new store is laid out like a self-serivce store, and we hope you will find it convenient to shop leisurely all over the store, but a sales clerk—Fred, Jim or Dick, that is—will be there to help you, if you prefer!

Two Smith-Cotton Stars Selected On District All-Star Grid Team

CEMO Fills Six Spots On Second Team

Marshall Bryan And Bill McDowell Draw Honors for Tigers

By Gene Williams

Halfback Marshall Bryan and guard Bill McDowell of the Smith-Cotton Tigers have been awarded positions on the 1957 All-Star football team from the North Central District. The only other player from the Central Missouri Conference to gain a first team berth was Max Moody, Jefferson City's stellar guard.

The CEMO schools dominated the second team by filling six positions. Honorable mention went to 14 players from the CEMO, including guard Perry Fairfax and center Dick Sklar of Smith-Cotton. Fairfax was an all conference selection, as was Bryan.

Selections, announced today, were made by members of the Sportswriters association in the North Central District, area coaches and game officials.

Bryan, one of the top vote getters on the all-star squad and Sedalia's all-state candidate, was the Tigers' principal offensive threat during the past season. He accounted for 16 touchdowns and 10 extra points for a 106 point total, nearly half of Smith-Cotton's 226 points during the five-win, four-loss and one-tie season.

Although not a speedster, Bryan exhibited uncanny ability for choosing the right line holes and outwitting opposing tacklers with his shifty running. And, when short yardage was required for a first down, the 160-pound halfback was usually the Bengals' meal ticket on straight-ahead smashes. During the ten game schedule, he was nominated for ball carrying duty 141 times and he churned out 1,177 yards — an average of 8.3 yards per carry.

Bryan's activity wasn't limited to offense either. Smith-Cotton's head coach, Ralph "Stub" Dow, says, "Bryan is the best defensive back I saw all year and I saw some good ones with St. Joseph, North Knsas City, Springfield, Raytown and Columbia and other opponents." He played outside linebacker in S-C's defensive patterns.

The choice of McDowell as an all-district all-star guard came as a pleasant surprise in local circles. Although he had been credited with yeoman duty in the Tigers' line, like Moody of Jefferson City, McDowell received only an "honorable mention" on the mythical eleven selected by coaches of the Central Missouri conference. However, the combination of coaches, writers and officials from over the entire area saw him as the mainstay in Smith-Cotton's forward wall and Moody as the Jays' top lineman — and both as the district's best.

McDowell, a 190-pound, two letterman, will graduate this spring. He started the season as a guard and was used to relieve Peter Lamy and Bill Poynter at the tackle positions. When Poynter was injured he was moved permanently to a tackle post. Coach Dow cited the conference games played against Columbia and Mexico and the contests against Springfield and Raytown in non-loop activity as his best performance.

Fairfax played offensive guard and defensive end for the Tigers and Sklar played offensive center. Both are seniors.

Other backs on the first team are Charlie Linn of Macon, Larry Megown of Centralia and Ronnie Rogers of Kirksville. Linn has been an outstanding back for the past three seasons and sparked Macon's undefeated string of 24 games. That streak was snapped in the season's finale by the Centralia Panthers, 7-6. Megown, the area's top scorer with 23 TDs and a yardage record comparable to Bryan's, paced the Centralia eleven to a 9-won, 1-loss season. The lone defeat was to Helias, 7-6. Centralia copped the Quint City Conference crown and finished behind Helias in the Northeast Missouri Conference. Kirksville, named the area's top team by the District Writers Association, was tied by Macon, 7-7, and Rogers, a halfback, carried the brunt of the Tigers' offensive burden in their 8-0-1 season.

Jon Stone, a 210-pound center, and Allen Harper, a 200-pound tackle, were the other representatives from Centralia on the all star team. Stone, although only a junior, polled more votes than any other player in winning the nomination. All-star selectors were in complete accord in their praise for his fine play, particularly as a linebacker.

Jack Butler of Jefferson City's undefeated Helias Crusaders, champs of the NEMO loop, and Bob Shelton, the other junior on the first team, were named to end spots. Jerry Kelly of Marceline got the other tackle position.

On the second team, Ronnie Cox, the magic-man of Columbia Hickman's tricky split T, and Bill Brewster, Kemper's speed merchant, were CEMO backfield selections. Paul Leslie, field general for Helias, and Jim Blew of Marceline got the other second team backfield positions. George Hulett, Columbia, Bob Krigbaum, Hannibal, Don Lotton, Mexico, and Jim Crum, Hickman, represented the CEMO on the district's second team all-star line. Crum turned-in one of the finest performances by any player this season against Smith-Cotton at Jennie Jaynes stadium when the Tigers measured the Kewpies, 32-19.

Petition Puts Stadium Hope In Mothballs

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A refendum petition has at least temporarily snafued Walter O'Malley's plans to build a dream stadium for his Los Angeles Dodgers in Chavez Ravine.

Signatures for the petition were collected by a group protesting the city's real estate deal with Dodger baseball club of the National League.

The petition was checked by the city clerk's office, which announced yesterday that the petition has the necessary 51,767 bona fide signatures, with several thousand more still to be checked.

O'Malley, president of the club which moved here from Brooklyn, had hoped to start construction immediately on the 10-million dollar ball park. The referendum means that at best his plans are sidetracked, perhaps permanently derailed.

The issue now rests with the city council, which can:

Call a special election on the question.

Place the matter on the ballot at the June general election.

Rescind the ordinance covering the contract between the Dodgers and the city.

The Dodgers reportedly have been leaning strongly toward playing all their 1958 home games in 102,000-seat Memorial Coliseum. But O'Malley had hoped to have his own stadium's turnstiles clickin by the 1959 season.

Champ Brown Batters Lopes

CHICAGO (AP) — Lightweight champion Joe Brown, fresh from blasting aside game but overmatched Joey Lopes, is poised for a probable February title defense against Ralph Dupas at Houston, Tex.

Brown last night scored an 11th-round technical knockout of Lopes in a televised championship bout that was more uneven than it may have looked.

On points, Lopes was still very much in the fight until the champion lowered the boom in 1:50 of the 11th round, but actually Brown was toying with the 4-1 underdog virtually from the start.

Brown fought a retreating fight in the early rounds, but scarcely used a right-hand punch. In the seventh, the champion exploded a right to the chin which floored Lopes for a count of four.

The fight really was over right then. Lopes fought back gamely, but in the 10th round, the scrapper from Sacramento, Calif., wandered in a daze to Brown's corner and sat on the champion's stool.

In the 11th, Brown came out for the kill. A square right shot to the jaw dumped Lopes, who took a three count. Lopes righted himself, only to run into another explosive right to the chin which dropped him again. Lopes struggled to his feet once more. Brown savagely belted him and Referee Joey White flew between the two to signify a TKO and save Lopes from possible serious injury.

Each fighter weighed 133½ for the scheduled 15-rounder.

Lopes was bleeding from cuts around both eyes and around the mouth. He shot his Sunday punches at Brown time and again, but they didn't hurt the champion.

Sgt. Baslee's LL Giants Win Flag In Germany

S-Sgt. Bob Baslee, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Baslee, Green Ridge, Route 2, won high recognition as coach for the Little League Giants, sponsored by the 807th TAC Control squadron in West Germany.

The camp paper in connection with his being presented with luggage and a sweater by Dickie Hawes, catcher-captain of the LL Giant baseball team says:

Robert Baslee.

The boys who wear the uniform of the Little League Giants got together with their parents and paid homage to the man who is responsible for their winning the local baseball crown two years in a row.

The event, a surprise banquet, the man of the hour was S-Sgt. Robert aslee.

In behalf of the boys and their parents team captain Dick Hawes presented Baslee with a handsome Samsonite two suiter and a sports sweater.

The gifts were in appreciation to "Bob" more for his devotion to the boys in teaching them good sportsmanship than for his efforts in making them a winning group, one parent said. Baslee has been both manager and coach of the Giants for the greater part of the season.

Lt. Col. and Mrs. L. G. Clarke were guests at the banquet. Clarke is commanding officer of the 807th TAC Control squadron which sponsors the Giants. Capt. M. C. Frey was master of ceremonies.

During the festivities Sgt. Baslee announced each team member would be given a baseball jacket, "win or lose".

Early in the season the boys had been told they would receive jackets from the 807th if they won the flag. Two more games were scheduled and the Giants needed only one to clinch the title. They won that game.

RESOLUTION NO. 350

A RESOLUTION declaring it necessary to bring to the established grade and paving with a rock base not less than 6 inches after compaction, with a hot mix asphalt mat coat 1½ inches thick after compaction from curb to curb all that part of the roadway of East Seventeenth Street from the east line of Collins Avenue thence east to the west line of Marvin Avenue, all public streets and avenues within the City of Sedalia, Missouri.

BE IT RESOLVED by the Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, as follows:

SECTION 1. The Council of the City of Sedalia, Missouri, finds, deems and hereby declares it to be necessary to bring to the established grade and pave with a rock base not less than 6 inches after compaction with a hot mix asphalt mat coat 1½ inches thick after compaction from curb to curb all that part of the roadway of East Seventeenth Street from the east line of Collins Avenue thence east to the west line of Marvin Avenue, all public streets and avenues within the City of Sedalia, Missouri, according to plans and specifications to be prepared by the City Engineer of said City of Sedalia, Missouri, and to be on file with the City Clerk of said city on or before the 23rd day of December, 1957.

SECTION 2. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City Engineer of said city shall prepare plans and specifications for said work and improvement together with an estimate of the cost thereof, and shall file the same with the City Clerk of said City of Sedalia, Missouri, on or before the 23rd day of December, 1957, for inspection by the public.

SECTION 3. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the cost of said improvement shall be paid by special assessment against the lots and lands fronting or abutting on either side of said part of East Seventeenth Street, a public street within said City as aforesaid, to be so improved and on said improvement being completed, special tax bills shall be issued against said lots and lands chargeable with the cost of said improvement, and that the cost of bringing said part of said East Seventeenth Street to the established grade shall be included in the special assessment for paying for the bringing of said street to the established grade and paving all that part of said East Seventeenth Street in manner and form as herinbefore set forth.

SECTION 4. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that this resolution be published for seven consecutive insertions in The Sedalia Democrat, a newspaper of general circulation pripted and published in the said City of Sedalia, Missouri.

UN Assembly Nearing Home Stretch of Difficult Session

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U.N. Assembly is heading into the home stretch of a session marked by further hardening of East-West divisions on world issues and a general standoff on colonial problems.

The Assembly has set Dec. 14 as its closing date, but delegates predicted an additional week would be needed.

Discussion of the Middle East and disarmament questions touched off some of the bitterest exchanges between the United States and Russia in years.

The battle of words erupted after Russia accused the United States of trying to goad Turkey into war against Syria. The United States countercharged that Russia had cooked up a phony war scare to try frightening Arab nations into the Red fold.

The atmosphere got still more tense when Russia announced she would boycott future disarmament talks unless the 12-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission was enlarged to include more neutrals and Soviet bloc members. Soviet refusal to accept a compromise move to more than double the size of the commission touched off Western charges that Russia had no intention of negotiating in the first place.

Diplomats felt Russia by trying to make a major crisis of the Turkish-Syrian border dispute, stirred resentment among some of the nations she most wanted to win over.

Arab delegates were irritated over being forced — through their pledge of Arab unity — to back a cause for which they had little liking.

Most Arab-Asian leaders wanted Syria to accept Saudi Arabian King Saud's mediation offer and felt Russia was to blame for her refusal to do so.

The Assembly has made little headway so far on the perennial colonial issues.

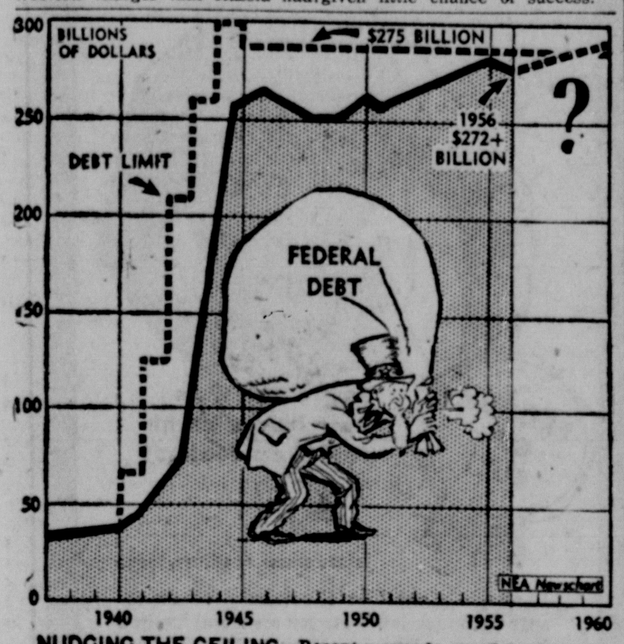

The Algerian debate appeared headed for another stalemate as Britain and the United States threw their support behind the French demand that France be allowed to work out her own program for ending the three-year-old rebellion. Arab-Asian efforts to put through a resolution calling on France to negotaite with the Arab nationalists on sovereignty for the North African territory were given little chance of success.

BATTLESHIP ON PARADE—This exact scale model of the battleship USS Missouri will be on display in Sedalia from now through Friday at the corner of Fifth and Kentucky and will take part in the Christmas parade Friday night.

Many tedious hours of detailed work went in the construction of the model to ensure that it was built to exact scale, the work itself was done by Navy personnel and the cost of the material was borne by the Skelly Oil Co. The ship model was officially christened by Rosemary Clooney by breaking a bottle of Missouri River water on the bow.

The model is 27', 6" long and 3', 6" wide and 4', 6" high, her guns are electrically controlled they will elevate, depress, and train. Number 2 turret will simulate actual fire of the Big Mo's guns.

NUDGING THE CEILING—Recent moves to speed production of missiles and satellites indicate that President Eisenhower is preparing to ask Congress to lift the 275 billion-dollar-debt ceiling. Newschart shows history of national debt since 1940 and graphically illustrates effect of World War II, Korean War and cold war on federal spending.

Brothers Are Listed In College Who's Who

If there are a few buttons popping at the Julius Stohr residence at 904 South Prospect, there is a big reason for it.

The Stohr sons, Richard and Don, received an unusual honor when both were among the 36 students from St. Louis University, St. Louis, to be selected for listing in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Richard is in tech school and Don is in law.

Students are selected for the honor by committees appointed by the dean of each school and are judged on excellence and sincerity in scholarship; leadership and participation in extra crurricular and academic activities; service to the University; and promise of future usefulness to business and society.

The number chosen from each school is based on enrollment.

Wagenknecht Finishes Radio Operator School

Army Pvt. Delbert R. Wagenknecht, whose wife, Shirley, lives on Route 5, Sedalia, recently completed the intermediate speed radio operator course at the III Corps Academy, Ft. Hood, Tex.

Wagenknecht, whose parents live at 1006 South Monroe, entered the Army last July and received basic training at Fort Hood.

He is a 1953 graduate of Smithton High School and a former employee of the Town and Country Shoe factory.

Little Change Seen In Price Average

Little change from 1957 in the average of prices received by farmers and the net income of farm operators is seen for 1958, says the Agricultural Marketing Service of the USDA.

Demand and supply prospects indicate no big change is in sight. Supplies of farm products will continue heavy and will probably equal the 1957 record. As for total demand, or demand for food, USDA marketing specialists say there's not much change, one way or the other, in prospect for 1958.

The most significant changes in view are lower prices for wheat, because of lower support and the likelihood of a large crop. Lower hog prices are in prospect because of larger production in 1958. Smaller slaughter is likely to bring higher beef cattle prices, and eggs also are likely to be up during the first half of the year.

Mrs. Lewis Elected President of Club

Nine members and two guests of the Victory Club met recently with Mrs. Eunice Neitzert.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Oliver Lewis; vice-president, Mrs. Ray Steele; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Pearl Broderson; reporter, Mrs. Charley Self and song-game leader, Mrs. Dale Cramer.

Mrs. John Lewis joined the club. The Christmas party will be Dec. 18 at the home of Mrs. E. H. Phillips.

The next regular meeting will be Dec. 19 with Mrs. Ed Steele.

Interesting Book Reveiw Is Given

Mrs. E. S. Close, assisted by Mrs. Armel Clinton, was hostess to the members of the Mutual Improvement Club, Nov. 23.

Mrs. Earl B. Hinken presided during the meeting.

Mrs. Carl Johnson presented a very interesting review of the book, "Around the World in Eighty Days", by Jules Vern.

Refreshments suggestive of Thanksgiving were served by the hostess.

The December meeting will be a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Ralph Chaney.

Coopers Are Hosts At Thanksgiving Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Neale Cooper and Mrs. Anna May, Knob Noster, entertained with a Thanksgiving Day dinner.

Guests included their son, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper and family of Dallas, Tex., Mrs. C. Cooper and Mrs. Mattie Brooks, Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Cooper and family, Mrs. Roy Cooper of Windsor, Mrs. O. L. Cain and son, Clinton, visited in the home that afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper and family returned to Dallas Sunday.

4-H'ers Draw Names For Gift Exchange

The Beaman Arator 4-H Club drew names for Christmas at the November meeting and made plans for the Christmas party.

Charles Brown, Patty and Larry Peters, Richard and Robert Hawkins, Darlene Cochran and Phillip Kabler joined the club.

The next meeting will be Dec. 26 at the community hall.

Helpful Hints for Hungry Hunters

COOK VENISON like beef. Broil or roast fine cuts and use slow, moist heat for less tender sections.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Does your freezer boast game? As we drove through Connecticut this fall, cars and station wagons whizzed past us loaded with deer. Judging from this sampling, the hands that rock the cradles are busy cooking venison.

Although our own experience with the meat has been limited, we have learned a few things emphasized by Audrey Alley Gorton in her recently published "The Venison Book." One is that proper cooking will do more for the meat than the marinades usually prescribed. Mrs. Gorton recommends that choice cuts such as chops, steaks and roasts be treated exactly as you would handle similar fine beef cuts; and that "lon, slow cooking, or pressure - pan cooking, will usually take care of the less choice cuts of meat."

Of utmost importance is Mrs. Gorton's discovery that the gamy flavor of venison comes from the fat. She says, "If the fat is removed when the meat is prepared for freezing or cooking, and strips of bacon or lardoons substituted when the meat is cooked, there will be no need to drown the venison in a witch's brew." Let marinades take over when they're due — in sauerbraten, made with venison, for instance.

One of Mrs. Gorton's recipes is for an English-style Venison and Kidney Pie, worth trying because England has always been noted for its game cookery.

But don't get the idea that Mrs. Gorton is concerned with recipes alone; she has practical advice to offer on freezer packaging, pressure canning and curing with salt and smoke. Her book also takes up dressing the kill, skinning and cutting up — these gory details supplied by a colleague of the author's at Marlboro College, Frederick J. Turner, Professor of Forestry.

VENISON AND KIDNEY PIE

Ingredients: 1 pound stewing steak (cut in 1½-inch cubes), 1 beef kidney or 8 lamb kidneys, 3 tablespoons fat (beef suet may be used), 3 medium-sized onions (peeled and sliced), salt and pepper, boiling water or stock, pie-crust, 1 egg yolk.

Method: Prepare the kidneys by removing the membrane and cutting out the white part. Slice the beef kidney or halve the lamb kidneys. Roll steak and kidney pieces in flour, pressing the flour into the meat. Melt the fat in a skillet and brown the pieces of meat. Put the meat and onions into a fairly deep fireproof dish (the dish should be about ¾ full). Put the boiling water or stock into the skillet to take up all the gravy and cover the meat in the dish with this mixture. Put on the lid and bake in a medium oven (350 degrees) for at least 1 hour — or until the meat is tender and the gravy thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. If you are in a hurry, this part of the cooking can be done in a pressure saucepan. Cook the meat about 20 minutes under 15 pounds pressure. Remember to reduce the liquid by about ½ the amount recommended for baking. When the meat is cooked (either method), remove from the oven—or, if pressure cooked, put meat in baking dish — and cover with crust, fluting the edges and making several slashes in the crust to let out the steam. (The English cut a round hole about 1 inch in diameter in the center of the crust.) Brush the crust with an egg yolk beaten up in 1 tablespoon of water if you like a shiny crust. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) until the crust is nicely browned.

Men Shudder At Getting Gift Ties

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

What do men want for Christmas?

Well, the things they don't want are neckties, cuff links, gag presents meant to be funny and anything that has to be exchanged.

These facts came to light as a result of a recent survey conducted by a New York businesswoman, Eleanor Kairalla, for the guidance of some of her retailing friends and, incidentally, for her own reference. She hired a group of college boys to buttonhole men at railroad stations and other public places and question them about their gift preference. The replies are revealing:

"My wife has the world's worst taste in neckties."

"Why does she buy me shirts without finding out the right size?"

"If I get another bottle opener that sings 'How Dry I Am' I may forget I'm a gentleman."

"I like to pick my own ties, shirts and whatever jewelry I wear, which is not much."

So, if these common gifts are spurned, what do the gentlemen really want?

Top of the list is an automobile.

The boys also wouldn't mind a gift of cash — any amount.

High on the list of male preferences are such things as new TV sets, hi-fi sets and sports equipment.

If the little woman feels she really must give him a gift of clothing, then he wants it in the form of a gift certificate, so he can do his own choosing.

Most all men would like a camera, if it's an imported, expensive kind.

In the clothing category they like sweaters, provided they're either all wool or cashmere, in conservative colors, with "nothing gadgety."

And, the survey reveals, there's always one gift sure of a male welcome. When in doubt, give liquor.

Smith to Graduate From Recruit Training

Gary L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Smith, 1802 South Washington, is scheduled to graduate from recruit training Dec. 14 at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The graduation exercises, marking the end of nine weeks of "boot camp", will include a full dress parade and review before military officials and civilian dignitaries.

In nine weeks of instruction, the "raw recruit" is developed into a Navy Bluejacket, ready for duty with the fleet.

Beet-Anchovy Salad Goes With Meatballs

SUPPER FOR FOUR

This salad is a little different, and delicious too.

Swedish Meat Balls
Steamed Rice Green Peas
Beet and Anchovy Salad

Coffee Mold Beverage

BEET AND ANCHOVY SALAD

Ingredients: 1 hard-cooked egg, 1 can (8 ounces) sliced beets, 1 cup thin celery crescents, 4 to 8 drained anchovy fillets (cut fine), French dressing, salt, pepper, romaine or other salad greens.

Method: Cut the white of the hard-cooked egg into fine strips and put in a medium-sized mixing bowl; reserve hard-cooked egg yolk. Drain beets and cut into fine strips; add to egg white with celery and anchovy. Mix with enough French dressing to give good flavor and salt and pepper to taste. Chill and surround with salad greens. Press reserved hard-cooked egg yolk through a fine small strainer over beet mixture for a pretty garnish. Makes 4 small servings. Note: Juice from canned beets may be utilized in a meat broth.

Grain Preparation Can Make Difference In Livestock Gain

The way grain is prepared before fed to cattle or sheep can make a difference in their rate of gain, according to results from a recent University of Missouri research project.

Using an artificial rumen much like those of cows and sheep, researchers found that flaked corn is equal or superior in feeding value to ground corn and better than corn fed whole. Also, pelleted and crimped oats are superior in feed value to whole or ground oats.

George C. Garner, University agricultural chemist, says research results indicate that the physical form of grain fed can have a lot to do with the rate that rumen bacteria conduct their fermentation process in the cow or sheep stomach.

This means when a ration high in grain and low in roughage content is fed, grain preparation will influence milk composition in dairy cattle and rate of gain in fattening animals.

Do You Know His Name?

Missouri Boy Who Ran Away Became American Youth Idol

By State Historical Society

Trapper, hunter, guide, Indian fighter, Indian agent, and soldier, this Missouri boy who ran away for a life of adventure became the classic guide of the West and the idol of American youth. Who was he?

1. What was his connection with Missouri?

A. Before he was two years old, he came with his parents from Madison County, Ky., his birthplace in 1809, to the Boon's Lick country of central Missouri. In 1825 he was apprenticed to a saddler in old Franklin, outfitting point of the Santa Fe trail.

2. How did he happen to leave Missouri?

A. The lure of the trail proved too strong for him. On October 6, 1826, the saddler advertised his disappearance in "The Missouri Intelligencer," offering a one-cent reward for his return. But the runaway had found a job as horse herder in the dusty rear of a wagon train to Santa Fe.

3. How did he gain experience as a trapper and Indian fighter?

A. From Santa Fe he went to Taos, N.M., where he served with various expeditions as cook, teamster, and interpreter. In 1829 he was engaged as a trapper with Ewing Young's party, the first of its kind to cross from the Rio Grande to the Pacific Coast and back again. He returned in 1830, an experienced trapper and Indian fighter. For the next nine or ten years he trapped in the Northwest. In 1835 he fought a duel over an Arapaho Indian girl whom he married the next year.

4. How did he gain country-wide fame?

A. After the death of his wife, he returned to Missouri in 1842 to place his daughter, Adaline, with relatives. On the return trip from St. Louis, he met Lt. John Charles Fremont, and in the succeeding years served as guide for three of Fremont's expeditions. His remarkable skill impelled Fremont to give him the spotlight in official reports and he became a Western hero. A small, modest man with bandy legs, blue eyes, and sandy hair, his personal appearance and manner belied his heroic deeds. Returning to Taos in 1843, he married Maria Josefa Jaramillo, the beautiful daughter of a highly-respected Taos family.

5. What were his later activities?

A. Serving in California and the Southwest in the Mexican War, he performed the desperate feat of crawling barefoot over desert ground through the Mexican lines to bring aid from San Diego to General Kearney's troops after the battle of San Pasqual. Sent with dispatches to Washington in 1847, he was honored there by high officials. As U.S. Indian agent at Taos from 1853 to 1860, he was respected by the Indians. He resigned this post at the outbreak of the Civil War and in command of a New Mexican volunteer regiment, served in several Indian campaigns of the war. In 1863 his regiment broke the war spirit of the Navajo tribe, long a terror to the settlements.

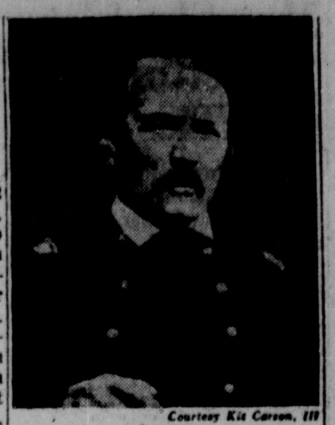

In 1866 he took command of Ft. Garland, Colo., but illness forced him to relinquish his post. He died in 1868 at Ft. Lyon. He was buried near there and a year later his body was removed to Taos.

6. How is his memory honored?

A. Mountains, lakes, towns, counties, parks, and one state capital have been named for him. His Taos and Ft. Lyon homes are now museums. His equestrian statue surmounts the Pioneer Monument in the Denver Civic Center; another stands in the park named for him in Trinidad, Colo. His monument at the Santa Fe plaza bears this inscription, "He led the way."

7. What was his name?

A. Christopher (Kit) Carson.

Musical Program Given at PTA Meeting

The November meeting of the Pilot Grove PTA was held Monday evening, Nov. 25, at the high school auditorium. The attendance prize was won by Room One.

Miss Marion Hume was in charge of the musical program. Several selections were sung by the girls chorus.

Following the meeting parents visited the class rooms. A reception was given for Dr. and Mrs. Fredricks, sponsored by the PTA and Lions Club.

B-58 BUICK

First Big Car that's light on its feet
-and light on your budget too!

Look it over. Big — brawny — room for the Marines.

Step in. Turn the key. Get braced for a surprise.

In your first mile of driving, you discover the first big car in history that really is nimble, easy to handle, light on its feet.

You boss a B-12000 engine. You command a Flight Pitch Dynaflow.* You switch the pitch a million ways for performance that's next to perfection.

You find a Miracle Ride plus Air-Poise Suspension* that floats you like silk on the breeze.

But that's nothing to the discovery you make about this '58 Buick when you get back to the showroom.

You learn you can own this 1958 Buick SPECIAL—this bottom-priced of the B-58 Buick line—for just a fraction more than the well-known smaller cars would cost you.

So come drive the B-58 Buick SPECIAL. It's based on more aviation principles than any car in history. It makes your heart take wing. Try it today.

NEVER SO MUCH SO NEW

★ Fresh bold styling with the Dynastar Grille
★ The Miracle Ride plus Buick Air-Poise Suspension ★ Flight Pitch Dynaflow or advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow*
★ "Velvet Wall" Sound Silencing
★ Thicker, wider, more powerful brakes
★ All built to exacting quality standards

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

*Flight Pitch Dynaflow standard on LIMITED and ROADMASTER 75, optional at extra cost on other Series. Advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow optional on SPECIAL Series. Air-Poise Suspension optional at extra cost on all Series.

THE UNIQUE OPEL
—the imported car made by General Motors in Germany—can now be ordered through Authorized Buick Dealers.

Teachers Set Rules

Youths Think Schools Do A Good Disciplinary Job

By Eugene Gilbert

Are American schools doing a good disciplinary job?

Those on the receiving end—the students—mostly think they are. But a sizable minority holds that there's too much laxness, and there is even a small group with a well-defined don't spare the rod philosophy.

Querying school-age youngsters throughout the nation, we found 7 out of 10 satisfied with the state of discipline in their schools. Nineteen per cent, however, considered it far from adequate.

"Schools these days are too lenient," said one member of this group, Anne Landon of Denver, Colo. "There just doesn't seem to be a way to keep young people in check anymore."

And a 17-year-old lad from Flushing, N. Y., comments: "Who's kidding whom? Delinquents are made, not born. If the schools taught the kids right, they wouldn't go out stealing and knifing."

Physical punishment to enforce discipline is frowned on by 82 per cent of the youngsters, who agree with this Missouri student: "First of all, that's hitting someone who can't hit back. Besides, hitting a fellow never taught him anything."

But 13 per cent feel differently. They think that a timely pedagogical whack at an obstreperous student might be a healthy lesson.

"There are people who can't get anything but a slap through their thick skulls," reasoned a 16-year-old Minneapolis lad. And Gaye Robinson of New York City put it this way: "Teachers are people too. Sometimes they get so mad they have to hit out at somebody. Don't they have a right to display their anger along with the rest of the world?"

Only 11 per cent of the teeners considered their school discipline too tough. Eighteen-year-old Jody Barnes of Berkeley, Calif., observed: "I don't know which is worse — weak or stern punishment in school, but neither makes for a particularly good atmosphere."

Hal Stone of Jersey City, N. J., declared: "When discipline is too stern, the pupils become afraid of their own shadows and can't accomplish anything."

Who's to blame when school discipline goes awry? Teachers and school administrators, the majority of their charges contend. If the educators handled the students intelligently, 36 per cent of the teeners surveyed said, there would be no disciplinary problems.

"Some teachers are just incapable of enforcing regulations or controlling students," a St. Louis boy asserted.

Twenty-seven per cent insist unrealistic regulations cause behavior difficulties in schools. "Some of these rules were written in the horse and buggy era," said Nancy Brown of Detroit. "Like smoking on school property. No wonder schools are having trouble getting their rules obeyed."

But three out of ten teeners consider disciplinary problems the fault of the student body. "The teachers treat us all right," said Edith Markel of Providence, R. I. "Sometime the students aren't fair to them, though." "It's a shame the way some students act in school," reported Joan Schneider of Philadelphia, Pa. "Home is the place where they should learn manners."

Fully 89 per cent of the young people agree that male teachers have the best-behaved classes. "Somehow with a man teaching the class you know there won't be any fooling around," a Chicago lad explained.

A good way to buttress school discipline, many youngsters suggested, would be student constitutions — a set of regulations decided on by student councils or the whole student body in collaboration with the faculty.

From their own experience, the teeners report, teachers in the 30-40 age group have the best grip on their classes. This age category was favored by 42 per cent of the students, who feel that younger teachers feel too insecure for firm control and older ones have greater difficulty in understanding youngsters.

But the youngest group of teachers (20-30) held a slight edge in popularity over the oldest group (over 40). Twenty eight per cent preferred the youngest as against 27 per cent for the oldest group.

Most students are satisfied with disciplinary measures as they are. . .

While a small percentage believes that the old fashioned 'hickory stick' was better.

Fudge for Cowboys and Christmas

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

The sweetest and trickiest idea we've come upon this year is Animal Cracker Fudge. Small fry will be enchanted with it and grownups won't mind eating it either.

The fudge is a light milk-chocolate color with good flavor and just -creamy- enough texture. The small animal cracker atop each square tastes delicious with the sweet rich candy underneath.

If you try this recipe we think you'll agree with us that it's a great one for youngsters' parties at holiday time and the whole year through. You can vary the garnish by choosing crackers or cookies to suit your party theme —at Christmas time star - shaped cookies are perfect. For a Cowboy and Indian party, use cookies that picture these themes.

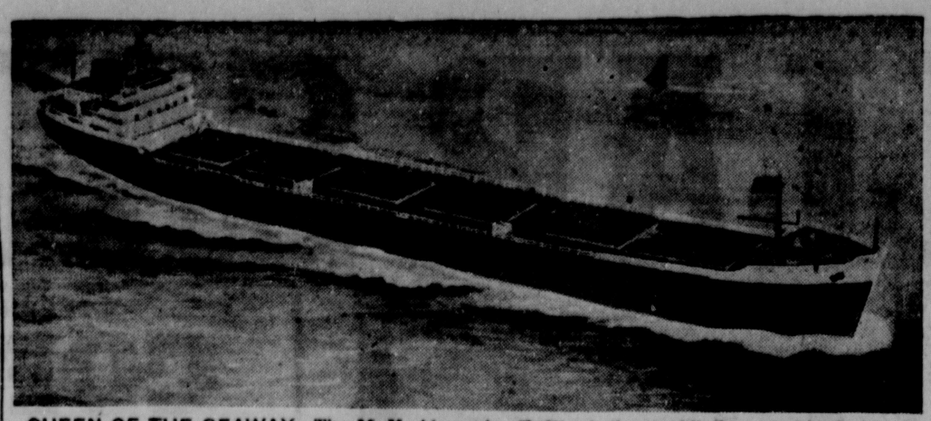

SMALL FRY DELIGHT — The Sheriff will have no trouble rounding up a posse when his badge is pinned on a batch of animal cracker fudge.

ANIMAL CRACKER FUDGE

Ingredients: 4 squares (1 ounce each) unsweetened chocolate, one and one third cups evaporated milk (undiluted), 4 cups sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 12 medium - sized (about 1¼ cups) marshmallows (diced), 16 small animal crackers.

Method: Put chocolate and undiluted evaporated milk in a medium-sized saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until chocolate melts; beat with rotary beater to blend chocolate. Add sugar and salt. Cook, stirring often, until sugar is dissolved and mixture reaches boiling point. Cook, without stirring, to 238 degrees on a candy thermometer (soft ball stage). Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla. Cool without stirring to 110 degrees on a candy thermometer (lukewarm) Beat until mixture is creamy and loses gloss. Spread half of fudge into buttered pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Sprinkle with marshmallows. Spread with remaining fudge. Space animal crackers evenly over fudge, pressing down. Makes 16 two-inch pieces.

QUEEN OF THE SEAWAY—The M. V. Alexander T. Wood, the world's largest ship designed for both ocean going and St. Lawrence-Great Lakes service, has been launched at the shipyard of Canadian Vickers, Ltd., in Montreal. Artist's painting, above, shows how the six-million-dollar, 578-foot-long vessel will look when it goes into operation. Diesel powered, it will haul bulk cargoes such as iron ore, grain and coal in its dual role of deep sea and inland waterway carrier.

MISSILE TRACKER AT WORK: Once he's trained and sent overseas, how do you keep him from being bored?

Brains, Boredom Big Bugs in Missile Training Project

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Brains are turning out to be the big bug in the rapidly expanding guided missile training programs of the services.

But boredom is the handicap to keeping missile units sharp after they've been trained and are in the field. This is especially true of the Army and Air Force units with the big bombardment missiles which can't be test-fired except on special ranges.

Roughly 15 per cent of U.S. combat forces have either been trained or are in training in connection with the use of guided missiles, the Pentagon estimates.

Almost all of the Air Force's combat wings are armed with some airborne missiles, including the air-to-air Falcon and the air-to-ground Rascal. More than two years of schooling are required for the men who maintain and arm the planes with these weapons.

The Air Force also has four wings of Matadors—tactical bombing missiles—operational, and two in training in Orlando, Fla. And the Strategic Air Command is forming its first unit to handle the Snark missile.

The Navy is doing a tremendous amount of shipboard training in the use of missiles and has close to 1,000 officers and men in technical schools learning the detailed skills of missile maintenance and use. The Army has trained thousands in the use of the Nike, Corporal, Honest John and Redstone missiles.

From this considerable experience a prime, disturbing fact emerges: it takes far more than average intelligence and far more than average education and service training to qualify a man to handle missiles, as compared to conventional weapons.

Here are some examples:

Col. H. S. Newhall, commandant of the ordnance guided missile school at Redstone Arsenal in Huntsville, Ala., reports that trainees in the basic mechanical maintenance course must be high school graduates, have had courses in algebra and trigonometry and have a background in general science.

Col. Van Slayden, chief of training for the Air Force's Matador outfits, reveals that "the successful operation of one tactical missile group requires something on the order of 90 distinct occupational specialties."

This includes armament specialists, jet engine mechanics, missile mechanics, radar operators and electronics systems specialists who have to go to technical schools several years before qualifying for the unit training.

On Nike training, Maj. Gen. Robert J. Wood at Fort Bliss, Tex., says it takes 28 weeks of highly-specialized training just to qualify maintenance men to repair some of the elementary parts of the missile. They have to have advanced training just to get in the 28-week course. And some of the courses teaching the handling of the simplest ground equipment run to 42 weeks.

Officer training for missile work is far longer and more detailed than that needed for enlisted men. Generally there is a higher percentage of officers needed in missile units, it has been discovered.

Getting enough men with adequate ability and brains for the limited missiles training done so far has strained the services. How this demand will be satisfied when the services are fully missilized has the manpower experts stumped.

The enormous training program which would have to be created in the event of an all-out mobilization for a missile war is something the experts are just beginning to be frightened about.

Details of Soviet Feats Gather Dust in Library

RUSSIAN PERIODICALS are stacked in the Slavic Room of the Library of Congress by Curator John T. Dorosh.

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Russian scientific organizations have been doing their level best to keep U. S. scientists abreast of Soviet progress but we haven't been tuned in.

Today an average of 500 scientific monoraphs and 400 scientific periodicals per month are received by the Library of Congress from Russia. The library sends out a monthly list of what it receives to universities and private firms, but mostly these publications gather dust.

If the U. S. scientific community had not ignored this vast amount of information on Russian developments America would not be so embarrassingly behind in such fields as space flight and rocketry, it is claimed.

This is the opinion of the handful of experts who have been beating their brains out the past few years trying to get American scientists to pay some attention to the huge volume of excellent material revealing details of Russia's science achievements.

RALPH E. O'DETTE: For tardy discovery, a $250,000 waste.

The experts in this field also claim that Russia has been far less strict than the U. S. about limiting the publication of scientific-military developments.

It is estimated there are about 6,000 separate sources of Russian scientific literature available to U. S. scientists. And it is claimed that the U.S. should be translating and publishing between 200 and 500 of the most important periodicals.

Only 40 of these periodicals—merely sampling the various branches of Soviet science — are currently being translated, a survey shows. Government and private organizations are each doing about half of the work at a cost of about two million dollars a year. It is estimated that 15 million dollars a year could be spent profitably on this activity.

The National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health and the Atomic Energy Commission are the government agencies doing practically all of the work in this field.

Ralph E. O'Dette, head of the Russian translation program for the NSF claims that the prime benefit of this Russian information is the savings of duplicate research which it permits. Untold thousands of U. S. researchers are now doing work which has already been completed by Red scientists.

O'Dette cites the case of a Russian paper entitled, "The application of Boolean matrix algebra to the analysis and synthesis of relay contact networks."

"Tardy discovery of this one important paper caused $250,000 to be wasted in duplicating the work that it covered," he reveals.

"Reading their literature is a cheap way of keeping up with Russian science and the key to getting ahead of their work," he insists.

He says the total volume of Russian material available covers just about all of the sciences and appears to be equally good in all fields from medicine to physics. "It's hard to find an area where Russian science is weak," he says.

Lack of funds is the big reason why the program of translation has been slow in the U. S., he claims. But he also explains that there is a shortage of persons capable of doing this work.

Ordinary Russian translators can't handle these specialized tasks. A man has to be familiar with subject matter as well as be able to read Russian, O'Dette has discovered in his work. He estimates that only about two per cent of American scientists can read Russian.

Unfortunately for the relative status of American science, the Russians have not made the mistake of ignoring U. S. scientific literature, O'Dette says the Russians do a tremendous amount of translating and publishing of American scientific papers and periodicals.

They get some of the U. S. material on an exchange basis with the Library of Congress. Some they buy outright from the U. S. universities and science academies, just as the Library of Congress also buys directly from the Russian sources.

In some cases the copies of translations of U. S. scientific periodicals are distributed in Russia two months after original publication.

It is believed likely that the Russian satellite advances will result in greatly speeded-up translation programs in the U. S. by the government and private organizations.

Farmers' Production Costs Still Rising

Farmers' production costs continue to rise. The U. S. Department of Agriculture says they're substantially higher this year over 1956.

Although farm output is about the same, farm production expenses are some two per cent higher than last year. The prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in production were at a record high during the first ten months of 1957, says the USDA. The average for the year is expected to exceed average costs for 1956 by about four per cent.

The sharp rise in interest rates on new farm loans, coupled with increases in prices of farm land and in farm wage rates, says the USDA, have added considerably to the over-all production costs of the nation's farmers.

Apple Grows On Rose Bush In Sedalia Yard

Something for the floriculturists to scratch their heads over is how an apple grew on a rosebud bush. This actually happened at the home of J. E. McNeal, 1020 East Broadway, this past summer, and he has pictures to prove his claim.

Last spring, when McNeal was cutting the grass at his home, he noticed a peculiar bloom on the sprouts of one of his rose bushes. Later in the summer there appeared a round object which was taking the form of an apple.

One day this past October as son, Mickey McNeal, he lifted the branch of the rose bush and the apple dropped to the ground. But before this occurred he had color he was showing the apple to his photographs taken.

McNeal reported it is the first time in the ten years he has been at his present home that he ever noticed an apple on the bush and is sure it never occurred before. He knows for ten years nothing happened and does not know how long before that time the bush had been there.

As far as he knows, no grafting to the bush was ever made, and there are no apples in the yard or in the immediate neighborhood.

The spring of 1958 will see McNeal giving the bush a close inspection for apple blooms. In fact, he has the bush marked with a piece of rag tied around it so he can easily pick out the particular bush which has caused so much discussion in 1957.

Bush was identified as red quint.

J. R. Burkey Loses Eye By Explosion

By Mrs. Orpha Lee Beeler

NELSON — Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Hutchison and Virginia visited J. R. Burkey Sunday at the St. Joseph Hospital, Boonville. J. R. was injured by a dynamite explosion over nine weeks ago. He is greatly improved but suffered the loss of one eye and has a badly damaged arm.

Dr. Lyle M. Nelson Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa., Paul Nelson, Turtle Creek, Pa., visited their sister, Mrs. W. H. Hogge, Arrow Rock, and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nelson Sr. and C. W. last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kramer and Mrs. Molly Kuykendall moved to Sedalia last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Younger, who have been living at Higginsville, moved to the Ed Thomas farm. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are living in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pollard, Boonville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lee Engle and Mrs. I. M. Verts Sunday.

The Rev. S. A. Yager, Postal, visited Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Aldridge and Dewain Davis Sunday. He preached at the Assembly of God Church, Blackwater, that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Newman and daughters, Sedalia, Mrs. Geraldine Sachs and daughters, Kansas City, and Sgt. Wayne Hinton were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hinton.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Biggs, Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Biggs and family, Houstonia, visited Mrs. Maggie Martin Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Danny Payne, Becky and Gayle, Carrollton, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. S. Q. Verts and Vivien.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kuykendall were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kramer, Mrs. Molly Kuykendall, Sedalia, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilson, Blackwater, and Mrs. A. M. Bradshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Slagle and Steve, Marshall, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Scott and family and Miss Virginia Reed, Kansas City, spent he weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Reed and family.

HONORING FREEDOM—Commemorating religious freedom in America and the Flushing Remonstrance of 1657 in particular, this three-cent stamp is slated to go on sale in Flushing, Long Island, N.Y., on Dec. 27. The stamp's central subjects are a Bible, which bespeaks the everlasting truth, a hat symbolic of the people and the times, and a quill, representing man's determination to speak the truth through the written word. The stamp, in black, was designed by Robert Geissman of New York City.

Eisenstein Attends Annual Agent Meeting

David Eisenstein, general agent for Mutual of Omaha and United of Omaha in Sedalia, is in Omaha this week attending the annual meeting of the General Agents' Association being held at the companies' home office.

The meeting, which has as its theme "Threshold to a Golden Tomorrow," features the establishing of aims and plans for the coming year as well as preliminary discussion of Mutual of Omaha's 50th anniversary celebration in 1959.

The meeting will end Thursday evening with a banquet at the Sheraton-Fontenelle Hotel.

'Kidnap' Project By Phi Phi Set For Saturday

Thanks to Phi Phi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, five patients at the State Hospital, Fulton, will be remembered at Christmas this year. Several weeks ago a letter written to Judge Frank Monroe from Dr. A. Bauer, superintendent of the hospital, telling how many of the patients were forgotten after being admitted to the hospital and that they need to know people still remember them. The girls of Phi Phi wrote a letter to Dr. Bauer and in response received the names of five patients from Sedalia and Pettis County, who need to know they have friends on the outside. Phi Phi has adopted this as their service project of the year and will also remember these five patients on their birthdays and other holidays throughout the year. The director of volunteer service, who answered their letter, also suggested various articles each patient would enjoy receiving.

Saturday the girls of Phi Phi are having "Operation Kidnap." From 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. coffee and do-nuts will be sold by the girls at Goodyear Service Store, Sixth and Ohio. Kidnap cars will be cruising the downtown area to take business men and Christmas shoppers to the store for coffee. A special pick-up and delivery service will also be available to those with limited time, by calling TAylor 6-2302 or TAylor 6-5310. The proceeds will be used to buy Christmas gifts for the five patients for this area.

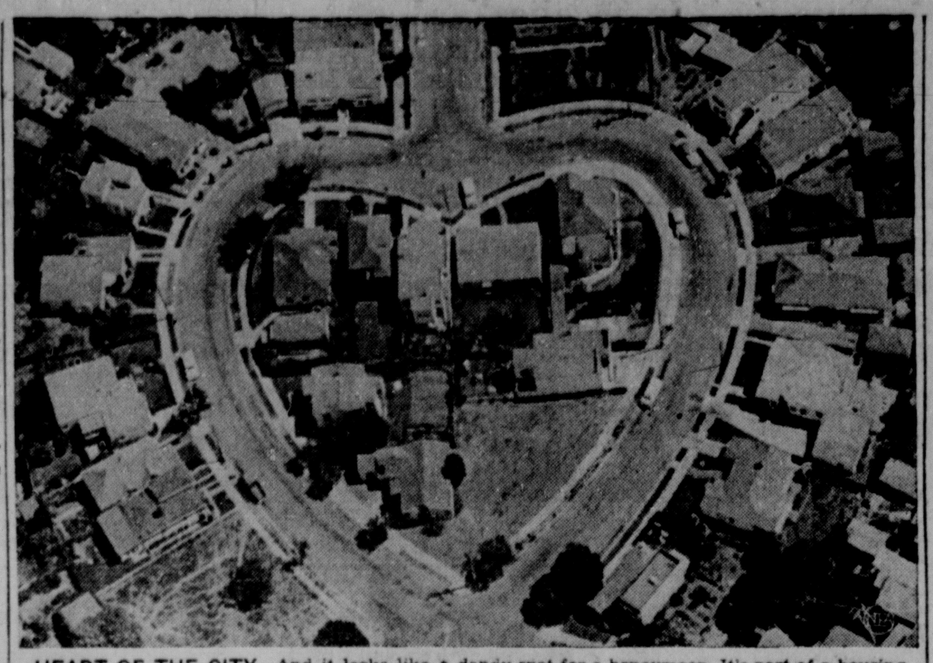

Conservation Sign-up Deadline Is Dec. 31,

Pettis County farmers are reminded of the 1958 ACP sign-up which is now underway in the county office at 605 South Massachusetts, says C. A. Staples, chairman of the Pettis County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. County practices are very much like those used for 1957. The sign-up period will close at the end of business on Dec. 31.

It is thought by personnel at the county office that every farmer who wishes the federal government to share the cost of some of his conservation practices should make his request before that date. This is more important for the coming year since a new method of making approvals will be used on a state wide basis next year. Under this new method, it is possible that late filed requests will not be approved for the amount which would have been made had the request been filed during the sign-up period.

Personnel at the county office will be glad to discuss the program with farm operators. Members of the county committee will be available on a limited basis to help in the sign-up, says Staples.

HEART OF THE CITY—And it looks like a dandy spot for a honeymoon. It's part of a housing development at San Bruno, Calif., where the builders apparently have gone all out to capture the hearts of prospective buyers. The street surrounding this particular section is called Carlton Terrace, but the main artery leading in from the top is appropriately named Cupid Row.

Center Easy To Prepare Meal Around Chili

JIGTIME SUPPER

Put this main dish together quickly and let it simmer.

Quick Hot Chili Crisp Crackers
Mammoth Salad Bowl
Fruit and Cheese Beverage

QUICK HOT CHILI

Ingredients: 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 pound lean ground chuck beef, 2 tablespoons chili con carne seasoning powder, 1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes, salt.

Method: Melt butter in 10-inch skillet; add beef and sprinkle with chili con carne seasoning powder. Mash with long-handled fork over moderate heat until beef loses its red color and is crumbled. Add kidney beans (including liquid) and stewed tomatoes (including liquid). Bring to a boil, mixing well; add salt to taste and simmer 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve in soup bowls with crisp crackers. Makes four 1-cup (generous) servings.

Note: If this seasoning is not available, be sure to add chili powder and garlic salt or crushed garlic cloves to taste; if on hand, also add cumin, coriander and oregano to taste.

Firms Throw Pennies Away, Save Money

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Saving dollars by throwing pennies away is finding favor today with a growing number of economy minded business firms.

They call it whole-dollar accounting. It means eliminating the posting of pennies in a company's books by rounding out each figure to the nearest dollar. Over a period of time the results usually average out about the same as with traditional book keeping methods.

The Controllership Foundation says pinching the pennies off brings savings up to 60 per cent in posting and 43 per cent in checking.

The foundation, research arm of the Controllers Institute of America, says the commonly used formula rounds upward the amounts of 51 cents and over, and rounds downward amounts of 49 cents and less.

The foundation studied whole-dollar accounting by 13 firms to see how well averaging out works. It reports Bethlehem Steel's variance in 1955 was $2.60 for each one million dollars of billings.

Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. reports an average net variance of less than $5 a month on annual gross revenues of 107 million dollars.

The foundation says that the great volume of accounting statistical work occurs not in sales slips and billings but in the internal accounting and analysis operations. It finds Pan American World Airways saving more than 25 million key punch strokes a year by using whole-dollar accounting in the book keeping stage of its operations.

F. & R. Lazarus, Columbus, Ohio, department store, records cash and charge account transactions in full on the cash registers, but at the end of each day figures are rounded to whole dollars for daily sales reports of each selling department. It reports several million digits a year eliminated from reports.

But from you the customer, you'll find any company using whole-dollar accounting in its book keeping wants the entire amount owed, right down to the last penny.

Disney Thinks US Youngsters A Good Lot

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Despite all the publicity about delinquency, America's youngsters are a pretty good lot, says Walt Disney.

The film wizard is back from an extended vacation in Europe and rarin' to get going on new projects.

"One of the things I want to do is make a picture that shows the good side of teen-agers," he said. "I get so put out with all these pictures about delinquency. I thought that one about Marlon Brando and the motorcycles ('The Wild One') was bad, and 'The Blackboard Jungle' upset me for three days afterward.

"I think those pictures are a mistake. After all, 'monkey see, monkey do.' Kids get bad ideas when they see such things on the screen.

"And I don't think they show a true picture of young people today. All in all, I think kids are a good bunch.'"

The way to keep kids out of trouble is to keep them interested in things, Walt said. One of his big projects is to stimulate youthful interest in science, now recognized as an urgent national need. His film "Our Friend the Atom" is a favorite in the schools.

"I think we can do a lot more things like the atom and space features," he said. "I'd like to tackle a subject like mathematics and try to make it interesting to young people. That's a real challenge."

Walt is convinced that lecturing to kids is no answer to delinquency. "Preaching won't keep kids out of trouble. But keeping their minds occupied will."

While others overlook the vast juvenile market, Walt is developing his own stable of talented youngsters via his Mouseketeers. The payoff is shown in his latest release, "Old Yeller." The movie is a winner for the whole family, thanks in large part to such Disney moppets as Tommy Kirk and Kevin (Moochie) Corcoran.

Mrs. VanDyke Reviews Book at WSCS Meet

Mrs. Lawrence Schneider, Route 2, was hostess to the Pleasant Hill WSCS Wednesday, Nov. 20. Mrs. Roy Erwin was assistant hostess.

A turkey dinner was served to 14 members and five guests. Mrs. Frank VanDyke gave an interesting review of the book, "The Cross and Crisis in Japan" and Mrs. Claude Leiter gave the devotional program entitled, "The Mind that was in Christ". Those taking part were Mrs. Schneider, Mrs. Harry Kehl, Mrs. Russell McFatrich, Mrs. Roy Reinert and Mrs. Homer Thompson.

Mrs. James McFatrich presided over the business meeting and the patches were removed from the aprons and $44.05 was realized by the donations. Plans were made to send gifts for Christmas to boys in service.

Guests were Mrs. Mollie Rhodes, Lawton, Okla.; Mrs. William Duensing and baby, Mrs. George Harrison and Susie and Mrs. Glenn Miller.

Mrs. Wilbur Garrett, 1836 East Seventh, will be hostess at the next meeting.

Children's Christmas Dinner

What this corner has to say today deals with editorial, news and feature comment rolled into one according to the dictates of an axiom laid down by a former employer: "Don't be afraid to be different." And, too, because it fits in with the philosophy of Royal Cowger, secretary-treasurer and business representative of the Teamsters' Union.

We have had social and business meetings with this man all of which have been friendly despite his "tough as nails" attitude under certain circumstances. You can never stay mad at a guy like Cowger. About a year or more ago he casually mentioned something about putting on a big Christmas party for Sedalia youngsters. Since we never heard any more about it, we supposed he had been dreaming at the time.

Then all of a sudden he invited us to a luncheon meeting of a group of Sedalians to talk about a Christmas party. We supposed he was getting a mighty late start on such a project only three weeks before the proposed event.

But not Cowger. Quietly for the past year he had been lining up this dinner party for Sedalia boys and girls under 14 to be held at the Labor Hall December 24. Amazingly enough the men who thought they were summoned to be put to work arranging the details discovered Cowger had the whole thing in a basket. Some idea of the magnitude of the job is revealed by a list of those who have already agreed to cooperate and the essentials they will supply.

Forty turkeys weighing 700 pounds have been bought along with other supplies which will be prepared in the Whiteman Air Force Base kitchens. The warm food will be transported in Meadow Gold trucks to the Labor Hall dining room where representatives of all labor crafts in Sedalia will serve the youngsters; the Fox theatre will put on a show for them beginning at 10 a.m.; in groups of 200 at intervals they will be chaperoned by Sedalia policemen to the Labor Hall; the Yellow Cab Co. will see that crippled children get a ride; Hubbard school will supply the dinner tables; McLaughlin's, Gillespie's and the Missouri State Fair will supply extra chairs; the Elks Club and Charles Simon, Sanitary Officer, will supply steam tables and other kitchen equipment; there will be 250 pounds of potatoes from Bing's; ice cream and butter from Meadow Gold; bread from Taystee, Butternut aind Holsum; Flavor-Kist cookies; 100 gallons of green beans; 1,200 half pints of Tastemark milk.

Then the Optimist Club under the leadership of President Claude Boul has agreed to put on a Pancake project at the Labor Hall for the adults who serve the youngsters and others who participate in the activities down there during the day. There will be sausage and bacon from Roseland Meats; pancake ingredients from Shryack-Wright. Maybe some other participants have been overlooked, but we'll recognize them later.

The Rev. Fr. A. J. Brunswick and the Rev. D. Warren Neal will spell each other at the Fox Theatre telling the youngsters, "The Why of Christmas."

Revelation of details already arranged for such a gigantic Christmas party for Sedalia children sponsored by Teamsters' Local Union No. 534 met with enthusiastic response and support by the following who attended the Wednesday luncheon:

R. M. Overstreet, Acme Cleaners; Francis C. Rudd, president, Teamsters Union; Lester L. Hepburn, driver, Schien Truck Lines; Olen Howard, Yellow Cab Co.; George Franklin, president, Missouri Pacific Federated Shop Crafts; J. S. Simon, General Foreman, Missouri Pacific Shops; Marvin F. Kueck, Tastemark Milk; Sergeant Charles L. Homan, Sedalia Police Department; Attorney William F. Brown, president Sedalia School Board; K. U. Love, business manager, Sedalia Democrat-Capital; Jack Faber, manager Sedalia Chamber of Commerce; Edgar Neighbors, Sedalia Chief of Police; T/Sgt. M. R. Stevens, Whiteman Air Force Base; the Rev. D. Warren Neal, Broadway Presbyterian Church; D. W. Heckart, Gillespie Funeral Home; M. R. McLain, manager Fox Theatre; Chief Warrant Officer Leigh C. Balcom, Whiteman AFB.

An idea, if it is worthy enough, needs more than planting. It needs cultivation and all kinds of human encouragement; the kind of treatment any civic enterprise requires, flavored with a dose of eagerness and native diplomacy to stimulate many other persons to chip in and help. That's the Royal Cowger recipe for getting things done.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Why Scientists Leave U.S. Gov't Service

By DREW PEARSON

LOS ANGELES—One of the most important parts of our missile development is the nose cone. It must be strong enough to withstand a speed of several thousand miles an hour, yet light enough not to bog down the missile.

In the latter part of 1954, the man who did the pioneer work on missile noses, Dr. Edward U. Condon, drove from Corning, N.Y., to Washington in his station wagon to deliver a new nose cone to the Navy. The Navy, however, refused to accept it.

It had called in Dr. Condon and asked him to put his inventive genius to work devising the new missile nose. It needed the nose badly. But now it refused to accept it.

Behind this paradoxical position was one of the most shameful chains of events in United States government. It illustrates why scientists were driven out of government and why the U.S.A. is so tragically behind Russia in science.

What happened was that Richard Nixon, as congressman from California and member of the un-American Activities Committee, had staged an investigation of Dr. Condon in 1947-48, when Condon was director of the Bureau of Standards in Washington. There was no accusation that Condon was a member of the Communist party, only that his wife was gossipy, that they had attended a Yugoslav cocktail party, that he was guilty by association.

Sped H-Bomb Development

Condon was one of the best men ever to head the Bureau of Standards, was credited by Dr. Edward Teller with shortening development of the H-bomb by one year. Yet Nixon, sitting on the powerful un-American Activities Committee, investigated every sentence he ever uttered, checked on every important person he'd ever talked to.

Averell Harriman, then Secretary of Commerce and Condon's boss, defended him. Condon was cleared. But eventually, tired of being hit over the head by Nixon's investigation, he, like so many other scientists, decided to get out of government. He went to work for Corning Glass at Corning, N.Y.

To work for Corning, however, he had to clear another loyalty investigation, since Corning was handling government contracts. This was extremely thorough. Because of Nixon's earlier charges, the eastern regional security board took from July 1953 to 1954 to act, at which time it completely cleared Dr. Condon.

It was in July 1954, after he was cleared, that the Navy asked him to go to work on the badly needed nose cone for missiles. And it was in October 1954 that the Navy refused to accept it.

Thomas Hurt Navy Program

In between, here is what had happened. The same Nixon, now vice president and campaigning in Montana for Republican candidates in the 1954 election, learned on October 19 that Dr. Condon had been given a final security clearance. He picked up the phone and called Washington. Two days later, October 21, Secretary of the Navy Charles Thomas removed Condon's security clearance.

The record on Condon was one foot high and weighed 10 pounds. It had taken a loyalty board of experts one year to study the record. But the Secretary of the Navy, after word from Nixon, acted in an hour. He could not possibly have studied the record.

In thus acting, he not only drove another valuable scientist away from a government project, but he hurt his own missile program.

For Thomas's subordinates, a day or two later, refused to accept the missile nose cone which Dr. Condon had rushed to completion and driven to Washington in his station wagon.

Condon argued with the Navy that he already knew the secret of the missile nose cone, since he himself had developed it. You can't put the egg back into the chicken, he said.

It made no difference. Condon's security clearance had been removed, thanks to Nixon, and the Navy refused to accept the nose cone. Dr. Condon drove it back to Corning, N.Y.

Three weeks later, the Navy called Condon, sheepishly said they would take the missile nose cone, after all. As developed by Condon, the cones are now the basis for our present-day missiles.

Later, however, the Air Force blacklisted Corning Glass because Dr. Condon had no security clearance, and, rather than handicap his firm, he resigned. His boss, stanch Republican Amory Houghton, now made ambassador to Paris by President Eisenhower, thought so highly of Condon that he put up $100,000 for his independent research. But Dr. Condon still is lost to government—thanks to the political terrorism of Vice President Nixon.

Nixon even made a speech in the 1954 campaign boasting how he had forced Condon's security clearance to be revoked.

Start of "McCarthyism"

Nixon's role as a witch-hunter has been forgotten by many, and he, probably more than any other, would like to forget it. But here in California, his tactics against Democratic Congressman Jerry Voorhis of Pasadena are remembered as the first beginning of McCarthyism.

This was in 1946, four years before McCarthy made his first charge of 205 card-carrying Communists in the State Department. Nixon smeared Voorhis as a pro-Communist and won. He found it worked so well that he used the same smear on Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas and defeated her for the Senate in 1950. Joe McCarthy came out to help Nixon's campaign, watched the technique and a few months later applied Nixon's tactics on a nation-wide basis. It will take American science many years to catch up from the defeats suffered at the hands of Nixon and McCarthy.

GOP Had Bear By Tail In Stevenson

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration got a bear by the tail in Adlai Stevenson. He and the administration have worked together briefly. It's probably the last time for both.

He came in as a consultant, goes out as a critic. Yet his role as consultant and then as critic may work to the benefit of both himself and the administration.

If Stevenson had refused to help the administration with advice, any criticism he offered later might be regarded as typical Democratic criticism from a constant critic.

But, put in the position of a man whose ideas the administration wanted and who saw policy making from the inside, he can expect a more attentive audience for what he says.

Yet his very criticism—it seems he doesn't think the administration is asking Congress for enough money in foreign aid and enough secret - sharing cooperation with the allies—may help the administration.

It will if he is persuasive in inducing Congress to give Eisenhower at least as much as he requests. It's usual in the capitol to give a president less than he asks.

People in a position to know Stevenson's thinking said last night he has no quarrel with administration plans as far as they go, but doesn't believe they go far enough.

These informants said Stevenson next year will go before Congress and appeal publicly for a "crash program, bigger and broader and more urgent than he believes the administration is considering now.

The administration invited Stevenson in as a consultant because it was anxious for as much solid Democratic - Republican backing —politicians call it bipartisanship —as it could get.

This put Stevenson in a funny spot from the start. As the Democrats' last presidential candidate, he is titular head of the party. But no one in the party has to heed him, least of all the independent - minded Democrats in Congress.

Some of them weren't happy about his participation in administration program - making. It would give some appearance of Democratic responsibility for whatever the administration proposed.

Stevenson made it clear when he took the job that, as a patriotic duty, he would give the advice he thought best and reserve for himself the right to criticize what he didn't agree with.

All this would seem to indicate what seemed pretty clear in the 1956 campaign: that Eisenhower and Stevenson think pretty much the same on basic programs and that their differences are a matter of degree.

Highway Department Protests Against Prevailing Wages

The state highway department isn't too happy about the new prevailing wage law. In fact, it's protesting against the first set of wage determinations made for the highway department by the state industrial commission.

Under the new law, the industrial commission sets the prevailing wages which must be paid to workmen on public projects. A general wage determination was made for the highway department showing what the prevailing wages are for each craft in each county.

Rex Whitton, chief engineer, has sent the industrial commission a letter pointing out "inconsistencies" in the general wage determination. Later highway officials will meet with the industrial commission to try to get some compromise worked out.

Whitton said the prevailing wage law will probably add to highway construction costs, especially in rural areas. It was expected that the prevailing wage law will also mean a decided increase in costs of construction of King milk and mail roads which are built with half local and half state. The same wage determinations for general highway construction will probably apply to King road projects.

At the present, no funds are available for King roads since the last legislature failed to make an appropriation for that purpose. However, King road funds are expected to be provided at a special session of the General Assembly early next year.

Back Come the Echoes Of 'Spending to Prosperity'

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—One of the old Republican charges against the Democrats was that Presidents Roosevelt and Truman brought prosperity only by getting the country involved in big spending programs for war and national defense. But the shoe is on the other foot, now, and beginning to pinch.

Big business expansion has slowed down. Productivity has leveled off. Personal income totals are declining.

The wholesale price index has dropped slightly. Retail prices for October are near the September level, indicating a possible end of the precipitous price rise spiral.

Unemployment is rising and there are even admissions from officials like Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell that it will continue to rise through February.

None of these declines is great They indicate that the economy is in a delicate balance which can swing either way.

The general trend is described by the new economic phrase of "sidewise." It means neither up nor down. But this "movement" was enough to cause prophets of gloom like AFL-CIO President George Meany to sound off against the administration's tight money and balanced budget policies.

This is regarded by some Washington economists as crying over conditions and causes that are no longer valid.

Federal Reserve banks have already begun to ease off on interest rates. And the obvious need of higher government appropriations for missile production makes the prospects for a balanced budget next year extremely doubtful.

The level of government spending for next year has not been determined and won't be—by Congress—for seven months.

But if the Eisenhower administration is forced into a big missile spending program, and if that checks rising unemployment, it will give the Democrats a chance to accuse the Republicans of having to spend the country back into prosperity.

Unemployment normally takes two big jumps during the year. The first is in June, when over a million high school and college graduates start looking for jobs. Until they get jobs they are listed as "unemployed." The second is in February, after the Christmas rush and before the spring farm pickup.

Total unemployment was over three million last February. It was two and a half million for October. Some predictions are that the total will be close to four million next February. This would be a new high for the Eisenhower administration. But Secretary Mitchell says it won't be serious if kept below six million.

Department of Labor's latest monthly survey on the characteristics of unemployment gives the picture in detail.

There are three principal areas of rising unemployment today, according to state unemployment insurance agencies. They are the Middle Atlantic, Great Lakes and Pacific Coast states.

About a third of the insured unemployment is in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Pennsylvania and New Jersey showed 4 per cent insured unemployment. New York reported a fall pickup in the apparel industries, but a drop in aircraft industries on Long Island and general industrial employment.

Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin accounted for a fourth of the unemployment, due largely to declines in automobile production during model changeovers. Michigan reported highest insured unemployment in the nation, 6.8 per cent. This is what set off Walter Reuther and other union spokesmen in demands that the government do something.

Cutbacks in aircraft manufacture hit Oregon, Washington and California. The totals were swelled in California by auto model changeover and in Oregon and Washington by cutbacks in lumbering industries.

Since aircraft production and aircraft parts suppliers are concentrated in these 11 states, any expanded government spending program for missiles would greatly change the employment picture. But since it will take some months to get such a program into full operation, a decrease in unemployment may not be expected before next spring or early summer.

Thinking It Over

By Robeet L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

When a single headlight approaches us on a dark highway, we are never quite sure whether it is on a motorcycle or on a "one-eyed car." A single light on a car is very frightening because it is difficult to discover which light is burning and which is out. Because of the danger created by such a condition, highway patrolmen are ever alert to spot unlit headlights. The driver is seldom aware that he is without adequate lights.

Day by day we follow our daily routine without realizing that we are creating spiritual hazards for our friends and neighbors. We are thoughtless of their welfare. We set poor examples for those who are easily tempted. We judge others on circumstantial evidence. We criticize others without knowing their problems.

We are as dangerous to our friends as are the "one-eyed drivers." We may mow them down spiritually. We may unwittingly drive them off God's highway. Let us see that our spiritual headlights are burning as we speed through life.

Husband and Wife Team Designs Christmas Cards

CHARLES AND ALICE ROHONYI—Christmas card team.

BRUSSELS (AP) — The Christmas spirit is bright in a Brussels studio, where a husband-and-wife artist team forget hardship and tragedy of past years in the shining promise of the future.

They are Charles and Alice Rohonyi, driven from their native Hungary by the Communist occupation, now well-launched on a new career in Belgium.

Both Rohonyi and his wife were established artists in Hungary before the last war and opened a joint studio after their marriage. Four war years wiped out their business, but tey started again after the war, gaining new success until the country was swept by the Communists. They seized the first opportunity to leave Hungary then, and began once more in Belgium as political refugees.

Last year Rohonyi painted a weeping Santa Claus Christmas card, which was sent only to close personal friends in Hungary, in memory of fallen Hungarian freedom fighters.

This year, however, he has gone back to his usual gay and cheerful style, one of his most successful cards being a jolly Santa Claus blowing a horn from which stamps of many countries stream into the air.

Rohonyi started first as a railroad man, then as a decorator and photographer. He took up poster art after his marriage to Alice Der, a well-known artist in the field, and soon became more successful than she.

When Alice turned to Christmas cards, Charles did the same. Says he, cheerfully:

Nowadays Alice lets her husband

INTERNATIONAL SANTA — A 1957 Rohonyi Christmas card.

do most of the painting in the family, while she acts as best-friend - and - severest - critic. This year the Rohonyi cards are available in the United States for the first time. The artist is sure they will be successful, explaining:

"After all, I'm learning something about motivational research. I have a carefully selected panel for determining consumer attitudes—my wife and my 7-year-old son."

Testify of Threats And Terror Tactics

Two Truck Drivers Display Scars And Tell of Threats; Anonymous Threatening Phone Calls Revealed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—Anonymous telephone callers who threatened to blow one woman out of bed and to bring another woman's husband home in a blanket were linked with Teamsters Union "goon squad" tactics today in Senate Racket Committee testimony.

The recital of violence and threats included a display of gunshot scars incurred by two truck drivers who refused to join the union. A third driver was said to have been beaten so badly that he still has not been able to return to work, after two years.

The testimony was described by Sen. Curtis (R-Neb) as depicting a "reign of terror" in Tennessee and neighboring states.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the Rackets Investigating Committee, called it an expose of gangsterism, crime, blackmail and violence, and said he hoped it would lead to laws affording better protection for working men "who ask nothing more than to be left alone."

McClellan said in a statement opening the new series of hearings that the committe had evidence of 173 separate acts of violence during the last four years in Tennessee, North Carolina, Ohio, Georgia and Kentucky.

He said, "Only eight of the 173 acts of violence have been solved" and added: "Law enforcement officials in certain instance failed to properly investigate those responsible for the vielence."

Robert F. Kennedy, chief committee counsel, said the hearings which are to continue intermittently during the next three weeks also will explore violence in Florida and Mississippi.

McClellan said the evidence "will point up a shocking pattern of deliberate goon squad violence." He said top officials of the Teamsters Union "have not made the slightest effort to rid the union of the hoodlum element who participated in the violence."

The two truck drivers who told of being shot were Roy Byrd of Batavia, Ohio, and A. D. McKinney, of York, S. C.

92 Bodies Recovered From Wreck

Death Toll Expected To Go Higher With 110 Seriously Hurt

LONDON, Dec. 5—(AP)—Rescue teams working under the menace of teetering steel girders reported tonight they have taken 92 bodies from the wreckage of two smashed trains. Police said 177 persons were injured, 110 seriously.

Swirling fog—the choking mist in which the two southbound trains collided with 2,000 commuters and Christmas shoppers aboard last night—still blanketed the scene as darkness fell.

Firemen hacked at the wreckage by the light of flares and arc lamps for the second night.

Piles of gaily wrapped Christmas presents, children's toys and bits of clothing were scattered along the tracks.

Police and railroad officials disagreed on whether any more bodies may still be pinned inside the twisted steel and splintered woodwork.

A railroader said the blood-stained rescue teams had completed removing bodies from the debris and were concentrating on clearing the line of one coach crushed under the huge girders of a wrecked overpass bridge.

Other authorities insisted more bodies still may be found by firemen cutting the coach apart. It had been feared many dead would be found in this pulverized car.

The death toll was expected to mount almost hourly because of the large number of persons gravely injured in the disaster.

The freakish nature of the crash put rescuers in peril of their lives. Tilting crazily over their heads were massive girders torn down from the viaduct by coaches that bounced into the air.

The crash was 200 yards outside St. John's Station a few miles from downtown London. An 11-coach train smashed into the rear of a 10-coach train halted by the fog.

Concordia Voters Reject School Bond

Voters in the Concordia Reorganized School District for the fourth time defeated the $250,000 school bond for additional facilities on Tuesday.

The proposal included facilities for vocational agriculture, a cafeteria at the high school, an auditorium and music room.

The vote was 742 for the proposal and 577 against. This was the largest number of votes ever cast in the Concordia area.

Wiser Brothers Waive Preliminary; Go To Circuit Court Friday

Three men charged separately with committing armed robbery with a dangerous and deadly weapon, a sawed-off shotgun, waived their preliminary hearing in Pettis County magistrate court Thursday afternoon and will appear before Judge Dimmitt Hoffman in circuit court Friday afternoon.

The three, all brothers, are Ralph Wiser, Independence, Charles "Bill" Wiser, Sedalia, and John Wiser, Tipton. They are charged with the robbery of approximately $100 from David Glass, Smithton, attendant at the Jerry Brown Service Station No. 4 late Wednesday, Nov. 27. The station is located one mile east of Sedalia on Highway 50.

Agency Will Be Set Up To Study Arms

Will Study Creation Of Space Platforms And Future Weapons

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—A new top-level "Advance Research Projects Agency"—to direct study and eventual creation of such things as space platforms and weapons still undreamed of by the armed forces—will be set up in the Pentagon before the end of this month.

This is one of a series of developments or problems arising in the Defense Department in the wake of Russia's long, threatening strides in technology.

On the basis of talks in responible quarters today, there are these other points:

1. A decision must be made soon whether the United States wants to switch from the current effort to build a high-performance, militarily useful nuclear-powered airplane to a crash program designed to get an atom-driven aircraft aloft before Russia does. It is recognized that the Soviets would reap more propoganda laurels if it got one in the air, even though the craft might be of doubtful military value.

2. A drive is on to have one squadron of Air Force Thor intermediate-range ballistic missiles—IRBM—and one of Army Jupiters in being by the end of 1958. Each squadron would have 15 missiles.

3. Part of the proposed two-billion-dollar increase in the next defense budget will be used to hasten by at least two years the development of the Navy's solid fuel IRBM, the Polaris. This could mean the Polaris might join the family of operating IRBMs by 1960 or earlier.

4. Another portion of the increase would be used to reduce the vulnerability of the United States' Strategic Air Command by cutting down the number of big bombers on one base at one time. Under this plan, no more than one squadron—15 planes—of the long-range B52 nuclear bomb-carrier would be at one base. This apparently would mean building more bases.

Armed Teenagers Attempt Entrance To Farm Home

Two teenage youths with shotguns or rifles were reported to have attempted entrance Thursday afternoon of the farm home of George Smith, about five miles southeast of Sedalia.

The youths fled when Mrs. Doyle, an elderly woman who lives there, went to the kitchen door just as the boys entered the porch outside the kitchen after cutting a hole through the screen door.

Mrs. Doyle told deputy sheriffs she was sitting in the front room of the house, reading her Bible, when she heard one of the boys say, "There's no one here" and then heard them cutting through the screen door.

The entrance occurred between 2 and 2:15 p. m., Mrs. Doyle said. The Deputies were unable to find any trace of the boys, although a description was obtained from a neighbor who saw the youths running down the road.

Community Fire Truck Burns For 2nd Time

THEBES, Ill., Dec. 5—(AP)—For the second time in three years this community's fire truck has burned up.

Yesterday afternoon the garage housing the truck caught fire and it was destroyed by flames. Three years ago the community fire truck caught fire while it was being used to fight flames in a wheat field.

Another Effort Will Be Made Today To Put American 'Moon' Into Orbit

Vanguard Reported Nearer To Mechanical Perfection

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 5—(AP)—Another effort to launch the Vanguard rocket will be made tomorrow and the deputy director of the project said tonight there is "a good chance" that it will boost the American "moon" into orbit around the world.

We are in a materially better position than we were yesterday," said youthful J. Paul Walsh of the Office of Naval Research.

"If we though we were not, we wouldn't have asked for use of the firing range tomorrow."

Yesterday's first effort to shoot the Vanguard into the cold outer reaches of the earth's atmosphere was stymied by mechanical trouble and by high-level winds so strong they might have twisted or toppled the rocket in flight.

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Dec. 5 (AP)—One of the men connected with the Vanguard Project said today it may take days or even weeks to get things set to fire the first U. S. earth satellite. Even then, he added, "the odds are we won't get it into orbit."

After hours of exhausting work on the Vanguard yesterday, Walsh said, the sleek, 72-foot moon-launching vehicle is nearer to the mechanical perfection which must be achieved before the blastoff.

Adding to his optimism was an Air Force forecast that winds will be favorable for a shooting tomorrow.

"I think the chances that we will launch are pretty good," Walsh said. "We have launched three test vehicles—separate stages of the three-part Vanguard—and each one met or exceeded the expected performance.

"We did this by not lighting the fuse until we felt that chances were excellent that it would go.

"There is a good chance that our moon will go into orbit.

"If it doesn't, we'll know why it doesn't, and we'll learn."

If new mechanical troubles do not crop up, the 22,000-pound Vanguard will roar skyward during the daylight hours, carrying the tiny satellite with a radio voice in its nose cone.

Asked when the "countdown" toward tomorrow's zero firing hour will start, C. H. Schooley, Defense Department information chief told newsmen assigned to the satellite vigil that they would know later.

Schooley denied reports that test shots of some military missiles were being held up to make room for the scientific Vanguard project. An Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile stands tall as a 10-story building on one launching platform here and the base bristiles with other military weapons such as the Army's Jupiter and the Air Force Thor.

"Cape Canaveral is not a one-shot institution," Schooley said.

"It can handle more than one firing program at a time. The Vanguard will not displace any scheduled military shot."

Efforts of U. S. To Launch Moon Are Ridiculed

VIENNA, Austria, Dec. 5—(AP)—"United States Disgrace. Spaetnik Doesn't Start."

That was the banner headline in today's Vienna Welt Presse, an anti-Communist newspaper, reporting on the oft-postponed American earth satellite project.

Several non-Communist papers here have taken to calling the American satellite the "Spaetnik," which in German means late Sputnik.

There also has been a lot of jesting about its small size. One paper cartooned President Eisenhower swinging his golf club at a ball labeled "U. S. Sputnik" as dozens of cameramen focused. The caption was: "Will it Fly?"

Other papers talked about "the inept publicity" attending the U.S. satellite effort, with the comment that the Russians made no announcement until their satellites were up for all the world to see.

In Paris, Americans sitting down in cafes were apt to be greeted by a waiter's deadpan question "Grapefruit juice?"

Officially, the French government regrets the U. S. lag in launching an earth satellite but the man in the street takes wry delight in the U. S. failure to put its pamplemousse—grapefruit—in the air.

The Paris Journal cartoonist this morning drew a picture of the unlaunched American satellite with the caption "It appears there is a worm in the grapefruit."

Papers in Moscow ignored the whole thing.

WAFB Pilot Lands Safely In Snowstorm

Instruments Gone, Lt. Col. Lentz' C119 'Talked Down'

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah, Dec. 5—(AP)—An Air Force C119, whose navigation instruments broke down, was landed safely in a blinding snow storm this afternoon, by means of radio and radar.

The pilot, Lt. Col. H. Lentz of Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo., issued aviation's distress call—"May Day"—over the "Flying Boxcar's" radio.

"We are low on fuel. Our navigation radio has failed. We are lost," were the words picked up faintly by the Air Force and CAA combined Air Traffic Control Center here.

Albert D. Parker and Gordon J. Baber headed the CAA team which located the position of the plane with seven men aboard and steered it to this northern Utah base. It was about 100 mile to the north. The position was fixed by separate radar observations.

Then M-Sgt. Harry S. McMasters at the Ground Control Approach Unit here told the pilot what to do—"talked it down"—on final approach.

The landing was accomplished at 3:36 p. m., (MST). An Air Force spokesman said there was not enough gas left in the plane's four tanks for it to have flown to Salt Lake City, about 30 miles south.

Ceiling and visibility at the time were nearly zero-zero due to the heavy snow. The base was closed to traffic immediately after the landing because of the weather.

The C119 was flying from Lowry Air Force Base in Denver to Hill AFB.

Aimed for Racketeer Riddance

Labor Legislation Program Revealed

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 5 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration today took the wraps off its 1958 labor legislation program aimed at smoking out crooks and racketeers from the labor movement.

It includes provision for full disclosure of union funds, secret ballot election of union officers, tightened bribery restrictions and broad recommendations for revision of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The program was outlined in detail by Secretary of Labor Mitchell to the second constitutional convention of the AFL-CIO and was greeted by polite applause from delegates. The federation executive board will take up the program at its meeting Tuesday.

Mitchell said the proposal will leave the basic responsibility for "honest and democratic trade unionism right where it now is—with you."

But, he added, they will correct conditions which appear "to have encouraged abuse and oppression on the part of some people."

Mitchell said later the program has the approval of President Eisenhower, who saw it as late as yesterday, and that it has been discussed with Republican leaders of both the House and Senate.

He said Democratic lawmakers were not called in for consultation because Mitchell believed they would oppose it.

The administration, Mitchel said, had not consulted or been consulted on the pragrom by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which is expected to present a legislative program of its own.

He asserted the administration recommendations will be presented to Congress by the President in January.

He said the proposals revealed today will be in addition to the administration's regular labor program calling for such things as an increased minimum wage.

Fire In Residential Area Fatal To Infant

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 5—(AP)—Fire swept through residential area near an oil refinery here today, destroying two homes and killing an infant.

Three other homes were damaged severely by the flames, but Joseph Lee Trailer was the only casualty.

Winds up to 20 miles-per-hour fanned the flames through the closely spaced frame homes in the 3000 block of Water Street and firemen further were hampered in containing the blaze by a clogged water main.

The fire apparently started in the kitchen of the home of the dead baby, son of Mrs. Joseph Calhoun, 26. Joseph's twin sister was rescued from a bedroom by Mrs. Calhoun, but flames prevented the mother from reaching her son. Joseph's body was found on a bed near the kitchen.

4-Year-Old Girl Dies As Fire Burns House

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Dec. 5—(AP)—A four-year-old girl perished in a fire which swept so swiftly through a two-story house last night that her 11-year-old sister did not have time to call for help.

The little girl, Deborah Vance, was home with her sister while her mother, Mrs. Jaunita Vance, a nurse, was at work at a hospital. The older sister ran for help when she could not reach the child.

Efforts to rescue the girl were futile. Flames drove back four men who tried to reach her.

Two Hurt In Truck Wreck On Hiway 65

Two persons were injured, one seriously, in a collision on U. S. Highway 65 near the Cole Camp junction at 3:55 p. m. Thursday that demolished two trucks.

Seriously injured was Gerald Edwin Rush, 19, Eugene, Mo., driving a 1953 GMC 1½ ton panel truck owned by the Riverview Poultry Co., Tuscumbia, Mo.

Slightly injured was Charles Wilber Maxwell, 33, Ionia, Mo., driving a 1957 GMC two ton feeder truck, owned by Robert Keyte, Ionia, Mo.

Rush suffered a concussion, multiple contusions of the scalp, and lacerations of the face and head. He was taken to the Bothwell Hospital where he was treated by Dr. Thomas Hopkins. Maxwell had a minor laceration of the chin.

According to state trooper R. E. Stockdell, who investigated the accident, Rush, driving the panel truck south, apparently went to sleep and beared to the wrong side of the highway. In an effort to avoid the collision, Maxwell, going north, veered to the left, but the right rear dual of his vehicle collided with the right front of the panel truck.

The W-K Garage, Cole Camp, towed the feeder truck to Cole Camp, and Chamberlain's wrecker, Sedalia, pulled the panel truck to the Texaco Station at the Cole Camp Junction.

The condition of Rush was reported as satisfactory late last night.

Opposition Mounts On Flood Control, Water Development Program

TRENTON, Mo., Dec. 5—(AP)—Opposition mounted today to a $144,000,000 flood control and water development plan for the Grand River Basin.

The Grand River Basin Resources Development Assn. has gone on record against the proposal which would provide dams near Pattonsburg, Trenton, Mercer, Linneus, Brookfield and Braymer.

Last night Alfred Witten, chairman of the bureau of industries and agriculture of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce, announced opposition to the plan and said an alternate plan would be presented at Army Engineer public meetings next week.

The first meeting will be held Dec. 10 at 2 p. m. in the city hall at Chillicothe. The second one will be held at 9.30 the next morning in the Daviess County Courthouse at Gallatin.

Bulletin

A work stoppage was reported at the Whiteman Air Force Base on several construction contracts which use union labor. Pickets were established at the base by laborers of Local No. 1125, Warrensburg.

It was reported pickets were established due to an Air Force contract for work on the runways by a contracting firm from Florida, which does not use union labor.

The labor union is reported as objecting to the hiring of non-union laborers. The picket line will cause approximately 150 union workers to stay off their jobs on the new housing development, and other projects on the base, it was estimated.

History of Union Is Reviewed

Sedalia Typographical Union Observes Its 75th Anniversary

The 75th anniversary dinner of the Sedalia Typographical Union, No. 206, held Wednesday night in the garden of the Old Missouri Homestead, was attended by about 60 members and guests, and throughout the good relations between labor and management in the printing industry was emphasized.

The evening opened with a cocktail hour at 6 o'clock.

Invocation was given by William C. Bergmann prior to the 7 o'clock smorgasbord dinner.

Herbert Emo, president, presided and gave a brief history of the union, which he stated was chartered on Dec. 26, 1882. A few years later the original charter was destroyed and the replacement was presented to the local on Sept. 9, 1890. Charter members were: Sam Elbert, Al Corum, Hugh Fitzgerald, Charles Burnett, Lew Birtnett, George Elliott and Louis Goodrich. The international organization, said Emo, is 105 years old, and was started in New York City.

Emo then introduced Clarence Robertson, vice-president, George Espelin, secretary-treasurer, and Mace Ayres, sergeant-at-arms.

Toastmaster of the evening was William A. Burton, president of the Missouri Typographical Conference, who introduced the guests.

Burton said that members of the International Union fought on both sides during the Civil War and still held together and they came west in covered wagons.

Here to attend the anniversary dinner was Otto C. Botz of Jefferson City, who was a former member of the Sedalia local. Botz told the group he wouldn't have missed this for anything. His father before him was in the printing business and said that he himself fell for it at an early age. He was just a year old when his father came to Sedalia and was in a shop which was on the second floor of a building. When his mother took him upstairs to see his father, he fell down the steps. He went on to say that he went into the union before he was eligible. He became a member when only 19 and a person was supposed to be 20 before they joined, but by the time the union found that out he had started moving around and they couldn't locate him. By the time they did, he was 20.

Botz stated he had brought with him some old copies of Sedalia papers and in one of them was an article which said that typesetting machines would never be successful. We've gone a long ways since then, he said.

Also from Jefferson City were Ted Schneider, former secretary-treasurer of the Jefferson City Local 119, representing the local's president, and Donald Brown, present secretary-treasurer of Local 119.

Special guests were Mayor and Mrs. Julian H. Bagby, Chief of Police and Mrs. Edgar Neighbors, Mrs. Ed Mullaley and Mrs. Claude Yankee, widows of members of the local.

Short talks were made by K. U. Love, business manager of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, who told of the good relationship between labor and management at the newspaper; Stanton Hudson of the Sedalia Times, who is an all-around newspaper man but stated he would rather be a printer and create with his hands than anything else; George S. Scruton, editor of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, who told of his father, Col. George H. Scruton, who was a newspaper man before him and of whom it was said at the 25th anniversary of the Union here: "Col. Scruton has always been a friend of the union."

He stated, like his father, he

Lloyd Phillips is general chairman of the parade which is sponsored by the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce of which William Solon is director and Robert Wall, general chairman.

There are four divisions of floats — churches, women's organizations, junior division and civic organizations — with two prizes in each class and two honorable mentions in each class.

Civil Defense Director Addresses Sorosis Monday

Brigadier General C. O. Thrasher, retired, director of the Kansas City, Mo., Civil Defense Department, will be the speaker at Sorosis Monday afternoon taking for his subject: "How We Must Adjust Our Lives to Live in the Nuclear Age."

Brig. Gen. received his basic education in engineering at the University of Illinois, engaged in brokerage and grain business five years before the first World War, during which time he qualified in elementary economics by attendance at night school. He entered first Officers' Training Camp at Fort Sheridan, Ill., commissioned a second lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps Aug. 15, 1917, and engaged in construction of cantonments in the United States, later sent to European Theatre of Operations, taking part in the Meuse Argonne offensive in connection with Supply Operations. From 1919 to 1941 he had routine assignments and during this period attended Quartermaster School and the Army Industrial College. In 1939-40 stationed at San Francisco he surveyed industries in industrial mobilization program and planning the supply installations on the west coast in case of all-out war with Japan, for which the War Department recommended the Legion of Merit.

In 1940-42 at Seattle he was given the opportunity to organize and command a port and general depot, purchase terminal property, design and supervise the construction of piers and warehouses in connection with the operation of the port.

In 1942 he was selected by General Sumervill to accompany the first contingent of the SOS to England as planning officer and in 1942-44 commanded the administration and supply of the Southern Third of England, where most installations were to be placed. At the peak, just before D-Day, the command comprised 225,000 men with the responsibility of supply of one million.

Pre-invasion practices covered six months of constant maneuver, and on D-Day, approximately 178,000 men and 45,000 vehicles were loaded according to plan. When the lines of communication had extended beyond Paris Brig. General Thrasher was moved to the Continent and given responsibility of organizing and commanding the Intermediate Section and for this he received awards from both the French Agriculture and Industrial Departments.

Upon the attack by the Germans in the Bulge he was detached from the SOS and assigned to General Bradley's command. As the end of the war approached he was made responsible for organizing and planning redeployment camps. In Dec. 1943 he was ordered to Germany to organize and be responsible for the supply of the occupied area and requested retirement in the spring of 1946 to return home.

In 1946-49 he became consulting industrial engineer with Spiegel, Inc., later accepted the presidency of Robert Keith's of Kansas City, a susidiary of the Spiegel Company. He resigned in 1949 to accept responsibility for organizing and managing the business brokerage department of the Herbert V. Jones Company, and became director of Civil Defense on Dec. 1, 1950.

The speaker will be introduced by Mrs. Leo Eickhoff, chairman of the current topics department.

Christian Maturity Is Declared Needed During Current Crisis

Dr. Randolph O. Yeager, assistant professor of social sciences, Central Missouri State College, at Warrensburg, was the guest speaker at the Brotherhood Ladies' Night dinner at the First Baptist Church Tuesday night, discussing "Higher Than a Sputnik."

He stated that there are five general reactions to the present power crisis in which the Soviet Union seems to be ahead in the race to conquer space and develop intercontinental ballistic missiles. He listed these as:

(1) Unreasoning fear that borders on panic; (2) An amazing complacency that tends to ignore the problem; (3) A fatalistic view that if we are going to hell, we may as well go merrily; (4) A A fatalistic view that features the stoical attitude known as "confident despair"; and (5) The Christian mental and emotional maturity that is based upon an intelligent theistic interpretation of history.

He quoted from the Scripture: "God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power and of love and of a sound mind."

Dr. Yeager concluded: "It takes a grownup Christian with a mature mind to cash in on this promise. This is the challenge of Christian education during the curernt crisis."

Sedalia Firm Produces First New Broom Idea in Centuries

The first new idea in centuries of broom making is Zip-it by Zephyr, manufactured right here in Sedalia.

The Zephyr Zip-it does a better cleaning job, easier, with a new miracle material, polyurethane foam. It picks up dust and dirt from linoleums, floors, walls and woodwork and rinses clean in a jiffy. Firmly bonded for dependable long life, the attractive plastic head comes in assorted colors to match or contrast with hanger-filled handle. The tapered foam is shaped to clean corners, under furniture, all hard to get to places and is light and easy to handle. It weighs only 13 ounces.

This flexible foam reaches down into cracks and crevices, cleans without stirring up dirt or dust and leaves no streaks of dirt or dust.

The only thing, said Robert J. Lindstrom, president of the Zephyr Manufacturing Co. it may be a little too good, it might not wear out soon enough.

This was Bob's brain child, as many other products of the company have been, although he is reluctant to admit it.

It started about a year and a half, ago when Bob designed the new broom, and the project was set up at Mid-West Research Institute, Kansas City, about a year ago for the purpose of selecting the best material for such a broom. Various materials were tried and during the course of the four or five months of testing it was found the polyurethane foam was much the best. A device which mechanically sweeps back and forth was used and the different materials were tested. Polyurethane foam was tested and after 72 miles of sweeping on the concrete surface one could hardly tell that it was worn at all. That is why Bob commented that it might be too good, but he isn't worried. The thing he wants to do is to produce the very best products in his keep-clean line.

The Zephyr Manufacturing Co. is one of Sedalia's best and fastest growing industries. It started as a broom factory here in 1932 when his father, the late Harry E. Lindstrom, came here from Kansas City, as the Acme Broom Factory locating at 304 West Main Street.

In 1937 and 1938 the Zephyr Streamline broom was developed, perfected and put on the market and still remains a favorite broom with housewives. In 1940 the company had outgrown its location and went to its present building at 400 West Second.

In addition to brooms made of broom corn, other products of Zephyr are Cham-O-Spun mops, whisk brooms and streamlined dust mops, with many different type items under each.

Now the Zip-it and variations of it are to come, too, in the whisk broom style and others.

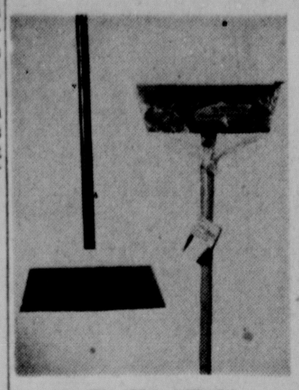

The Zip-it has many uses. It is not only used as a broom, a dust-mop or to wipe down walls, it is fine for scrubbing floors and linoleums and for sweeping.

From this new product, which has just gone on the market, the payroll at Zephyr has already gone from 80 to 90 and Bob smiles at what the future might hold for the Zephyr Manufacturing Co. and Sedalia.

The Zephyr products have the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval and are being shipped all over the world. This company has also received national recognition in a pamphlet published monthly and distributed to some 3,000 customrs and also given to employees. It is published for the purpose of creating more neighborliness and good will, and to acquaint people with its facilities for service. In it are good, brief articles and poetry on the American way of life.

In addition to Bob, other officers of the company are his brother, Ned Lindstrom, vice - president, and Mrs. Harry E. Lindstrom, secretary-treasurer.

The company is proud of the employer - employee relationship which has many benefits for the employee, which include life insurance, Christmas bonuses and a profit-share plan.

Fresh Pork Cuts Are Good Picks

We are in the period of heavy pork marketings which is normal at this time when packers are slaughtering great numbers in order to process hams for Christmas and New Year's. The remainder of pork which is mostly sold fresh is therefore in abundance. In order to move these cuts quickly, they are being sold at lower than usual prices. The quality is at its peak.

Because of the changes in supply and demand, one cut may be the best buy one day. The next day one of the other cuts may wear a lower price tag. It will pay to watch this fluctuation and become well versed in how the different cuts are best prepared.

Double Decker Pork Chops With Fruit Stuffing

Loin Roast and Chops—1 pound gives about 3 servings. Combine 1 quart soft ½-inch bread cubes, 1½ cups chopped tart apples, ¾ cups chopped cranberries, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sage (liquid if desired). Arrange 4 pork chops in an 8-inch square baking dish. Cover chops with stuffing and arrange 4 additional pork chops on top. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour. Invert onto serving platter.

Glorified Pork Suey

Shoulder Butt—1 pound gives 3 to 4 servings. Cut 1½ pounds of pork shoulder into 1-inch cubes. Brown in 2 tablespoons fat. Drain off any excess fat, add ½ cup chopped celery leaves, ¼ cup soy sauce, 2 teaspoons sugar, and 1 cup water. Cover and cook over low heat until the meat is almost tender, about 1½ cups green beans and 1 cup sliced celery and cook until beans are tender, adding more water if necessary. Season with salt and pepper and serve over hot rice. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Glazed Pork Roast

Fresh Callie—1 pound gives 2 servings. Scoring and glazing can dress fresh pork callie roast. Just season and place on a rack in a shallow baking pan. Roast at 325 degrees, 40-45 minutes per pound. About ½ hour before done, remove from the oven and make diagonal cuts ⅛ inch deep and ¾ inches apart to form diamonds. Rub with a mixture of ¼ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup orange juice and return to oven for the final cooking. Garnish with cinnamon pears.

Thaw Your Turkey In Refrigerator

The turkey you buy for your holiday dinner will probably be frozen since most markets sell the frozen turkey rather than the fresh. That means it's important to consider thawing time as well as cooking time.

Turkey must be thawed all the way through not only for even cooking, but also to remove the packaged giblets from the body cavity and to stuff easily.

Thawing is best done in the refrigerator, though it is slow. A large bird takes from two to four days, depending on its size. A small whole bird or halves of large birds will take one to two days to completely thaw. Place the bird on the refrigerator shelf in the transparent moisture - resistant wrapper it sells in.

In case you are short on time, turkey can be thawed in its sealed wrapper under cold running water. This may take from one to three hours depending on the size of the turkey. It should be left in the refrigerator 24 hours before being placed under the water.

Otterville Loses Two To Bunceton

Otterville's basketball teams both received setbacks Tuesday night at the hands of Bunceton with the boys losing 46-57 and the girls going down in defeat 23-42 on the Otterville court.

In the boys game Bunceton took an 11-4 lead in the first quarter and never relinquished. The invaders added three more points to their lead in the second period by outscoring the host team 11-8 for a half time score of 22-12.

Otterville's offensive strengthened in the third quarter as they scored 16 and held their opponents to 13 to cut Bunceton's lead to seven points. Bunceton took command in the last period, though, to outscore Otterville 22-18 for a final score of 54-46, with Bunceton the winner.

Paul Watring led Otterville's scoring with 4 field goals and 7 free throws for 15 points and Young led Bunceton's winning attack with 10 field goals and 6 free throws for 26 tallies.

In the girls' game the Bunceton team again dominated throughout the game as they outscored Otterville 12-4 in the first and 11-6 in the second quarter. Otterville tallied 10 to Bunceton's 7 in the third quarter, but never made a serious threat as Bunceton bounced right back with 12 to 3 for the hosts in the last period for a final score of 42-23.

Jane Miller was high scorer for Otterville with 10 points and Linhardt was high for Bunceton with 21 points.

Nurse Tells Club Of 'Anesthesia'

Mrs. Pete Petersen, health chairman and registered nurse, spoke on "Anesthesia" at the November meeting of the Brick Extension Club. She began by telling of the early attempts of surgery without anesthetics and how surgical progress was so slow until anesthesia was improved. She told of the various types of anestesia and the kinds of drugs used in each. She also led a safety quiz where each member judged her own safety habits in and about her home.

Recognition was given Mrs. Burford Jenkins and Mrs. Clyde Paul for their work as 4-H leaders. A gift was presented to them. Mrs. Jenkins, who will be community leader next year, reported on the banquet for 4-H members, leaders and parents at Boonville.

Mrs. Frank Yeager gave a talk on meat cookery. Plans were made for the Christmas dinner to be served at the high school.

Refreshments were served to 11 members and four guests by the hostess, Mrs. Cecil Rodgers.

Trimming Are Lean But More Than Ample

DENVER (AP)—The trimmings on at least one Thanksgiving Day table may have been rather lean today, but nobody could complain about the main dish.

A poultry farm here yesterday reported the theft of seven dressed turkeys, a duck, a roasting hen and three fryers, all ready for delivery for Thanksgiving Day dinners.

Western Auto Hands Warsaw 70-48 Defeat

The Western Auto basketball team handed Warsaw a 70-48 defeat Tuesday night on the Horace Mann court.

Jim Fall, a former Sacred Heart basketball star, led the scoring attack of the winners with 9 field goals and 2 free throws to score 20 points. Bob Bennett, ex-Sacred Heart center, followed Fall with 16 points. For the losers it was Bonner with a high score of 18, followed by Hedrick and Banning who scored 10 each.

In the first period of play Western Auto outscored Warsaw 15 to 8 and in the second the winners tallied for 18 points to Warsaw's ten. At half time the score stood at 33 to 18, Western Auto.

In the third quarter the home team again had high score when they outscored the losers 17 to 10. Warsaw put on a final scoring drive in the fourth and final stanza to tie Western Auto 20-20, for a final score of 70 to 48, with the victory going to the local boys.

Western Auto plays again next Saturday night when they meet Windsor on the hardwood.

Mrs. Goode Elected President of Club

Mrs. Omar Howard entertained the Rebekah Home Club at her home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mae Shults read a Thanksgiving poem. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Lewis Leaton; vice-president, Mrs. Bessie Goode; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Omar Howard and reporter, Mrs. Mildred Young.

Beauty in gift form is the one thing every woman appreciates at Christmas time. This year, the accent is on perfume in spray form because it's economical and luxurious at the same time. It's also easy to handle and easy to carry. One version (upper left) is by Corday in both atomizer and metered spray that can be carried in a handbag. Oil for a luxurious bath comes (upper center) in capsule form and in a miniature apothecary jar for her bathroom shelf. Scent, by Prince Matchabelli, is rich and sophisticated. Perfume comes in stocking stuffer form (upper right) held by a little angel. Crystal cylinder has fake jewel top; scent is by Lentheric. Another perfumer, this one with meter spray, is by Lucien LeLong (lower left). Flacon is black enamel studded with white and colored stars. Perfumed bath salts matched in color to a perfume fragrance (lower center) is a new idea from Coty. Gold-capped bottle can grace a bathroom both with salts and after, when salts have gone into many lovely baths. An American perfume in luxury bottle (lower right) is this one by Tussy. Bottle comes in blue and gold box.

Every Woman Loves

Beauty Gift That Has Scent of Flattery

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

A woman's Christmas that doesn't include at least one gift of beauty is not really Christmas at all. This is a point to keep in mind when you shop for the women on your gift list.

No matter how much a woman says she really yearns for something practical (and even names it), there's scarcely a woman alive who doesn't secretly hope that you'll think her pretty and feminine enough to rate a bottle of perfume or toilet water, some bath oil or bath salts or some luxurious dusting powder.

These are just beginnings, of course. And you can shop at many price levels and in many ways when you buy a beauty gift. You can give her extravagant French perfume in a crystal bottle cut you can give her a purse-size bottle and polished like a diamond, or tle that's pretty and not extravagant at all.

Newest thing for perfume-giving this year is the bottle with the metered spray which is both spill-and-evaporation proof. The spray control means that not a drop is wasted.

In bath salts, the newest and brightest are those that are colored to match the scent wih which they're perfumed—red, blue, green or gold. These come in lovely gold capped bottles that have many uses when the bath salts are gone.

Before you buy bath oil, it's best to find out if the lady on your list prefers capsules or the bottled variety. Some like one, some are devoted to the other.

If she's a lover of bath oil capsules, she'll take to a new apothecary jar that holds 50 and is moderately priced. The scent is slightly sophisticated and the oil itself is a fine way to combat dry winter skin, as every woman knows.

Family Will Prize Home Gifts for Work or Play

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

From a kaleidoscopic whirl of multi-hued wrappings, ribbons and affectionate cards on Christmas morning will emerge gifts for the home which the entire household will enjoy for their beauty, their practicality or their entertainment value.

Among the headliners of treats in store are furniture accent pieces. This is a broad category that will range from miniature chests to one-of-a-kind tables. But a new collection of accent pieces designed by John Van Koert is beamed directly at the gift trade and priced accordingly.

Included are square occasional tables with printed plastic tops and detachable legs for easy packing; a modern version of a wine cooler with a porcelain bowl inset that could be used in many ways; serving carts that fold up flat as a pancake; folding writing desks with tiny upholstered benches; small campaign chests handsomely adorned with brass hardware.

Upholstered furniture that's going to make gift lists will include new reclining chairs comfortable enough for Dad and slim and trimly styled to satisfy Mom, ottomans which have returned to favor and occasional chairs covered in bright plastic or fabric, some on swivel bases, others on easy-rolling casters to pull up for conversation or TV.

For the household divided in its views of television programs, new portable television sets will rate a prominent place under the tree. The slimmer silhouette, lighter weight and plug-in convenience of operating them make them ready to go anywhere. New small transistor portable radios take up less room than a camera and are especially popular with travelers. For stay-at-homes, new hi-fidelity phonographs can offer smart furniture styling at remarkably low prices — a console, for example, made by a leading electrical manufacturer, available in a choice of wood finishes will sell for under $150.

Synthetic fibers have brought new importance to familiar gifts. Car robes in orlon, packed in their own cases, are warm as toast and carry the added advantage of machine washability without shrinking or matting.

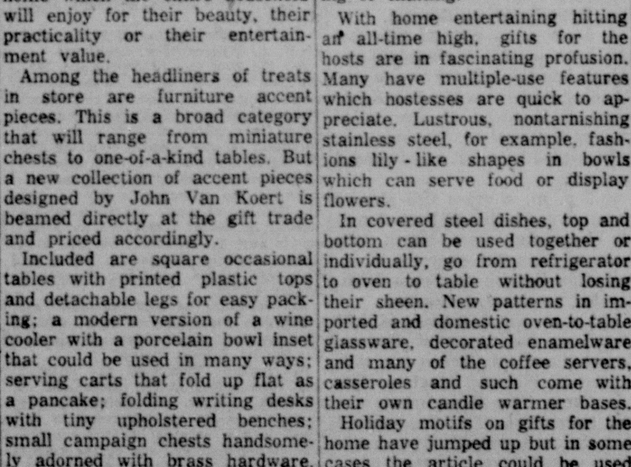

With home entertaining hitting an all-time high, gifts for the hosts are in fascinating profusion. Many have multiple-use features which hostesses are quick to appreciate. Lustrous, nontarnishing stainless steel, for example, fashions lily-like shapes in bowls which can serve food or display flowers.

In covered steel dishes, top and bottom can be used together or individually, go from refrigerator to oven to table without losing their sheen. New patterns in imported and domestic oven-to-table glassware, decorated enamelware and many of the coffee servers, casseroles and such come with their own candle warmer bases.

Holiday motifs on gifts for the home have jumped up but in some cases the article could be used long after Christmas. White china punch bowl and cup sets, for example, are decorated with a gold holly leaf; serving plates are handpainted in modern way with the familiar Twelve Days of Christmas. Stylized reindeer-decorated serving trays. Inexpensive tableware, both domestic and imported, is available with gay Christmas trees or Thanksgiving turkeys.

Another popular motif this year is our own American eagle which flies over everything from serving trays to decorated glass-ware and insulated ice buckets. You'll meet his stern eye painted on china and glass, carved in wood, cast in brass and copper.

On the practical side many workaday articles move into the gift category by virtue of their pepped up styling. Space heaters, for example, in sleek compact rectangular cases with all the safety features look neat and cozy. Fluffy pink nylon dusters tied with pretty ribbons belie their practical purpose. And new vacuum cleaners in pretty new colors will be a welcome gift with future importance.

Christmas motifs accent these holiday gifts for the home. White punch bowl and cups are highlighted by gold holly leaves; hand-painted serving plate interpreting one of Twelve Days of Christmas can also be wall decoration.

Teresa Phillips Becomes Bride Of B. J. Walker

At 7 o'clock in the evening, November 2, Miss Teresa Faye Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Phillips, 2119 South Engineer, became the bride of Barnett J. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barnett E. Walker, Houstonia, at the Hughesville Baptist Church. The Rev. Leroy Elsbury of Cowgill performed the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums and lighted tapers in candelabra.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. James L. Bass played "Indian Love Call." Mrs. Floyd Stevenson, sister of the bridegroom, sang "Always" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The candles were lighted by Miss Sharyn Greer, niece of the groom and Ronald Phillips, brother of the bride. Sharyn wore a dress of blue brocaded taffeta and white carnation wrist corsage.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a chalk white gown of French lace and nylon tulle over bridal satin. The fitted lace bodice was fashioned with long tapering sleeves and a high neckline which was finished with a small mandarin collar. The bouffant ballerina-length skirt of tulle was overlaid with a wide band of scalloped lace in a medallion pattern which encircled the skirt, dipping in points at either side to the hem. Lace was also appliqued at the waist to simulate a peplum. Many tiers of tulle ruffles formed the underskirt. Her elbow-length veil fell from a shaped crown of lace heavily embroidered with sequins. She carried a cascade of white carnations.

Mrs. Marion Greer, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a dusty rose brocaded taffeta dress and corsage of white carnations.

Robert L. Walker, Houston, served as his brother's best man. Ronald Greer and Donald Greer, twin nephews of the groom, ushered.

Julie Stevenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Stevenson, was flower girl. She wore a blue brocaded taffeta dress and scattered rose petals in the path of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress, matching accessories and white carnation corsage as the bridegroom's mother was attired in a brown and black tweed dress, black accessories and carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church basement. The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom, was encircled with yellow button mums and greenery.

Miss Arlene Tegtmeyer, Hughesville, Mrs. Bruce Sinclair, Knob Noster, Mrs. Robert England, Sedalia, and Mrs. John Bean, Kansas City, served. Miss Dixie Walker Nelson, was in charge of the guest book.

Toys Help Children Believe That They Have Grown Up

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

The toys that come from Santa's pack this Christmas will help children in a realistic fashion to make believe that they're grown up.

In the juvenile kitchen, there are matched miniature appliances in the same pastel colors that mother's are. High style plastic tea sets, tiny carpet sweepers and small size laundry equipment and mixers all make it easy for a little girl to play house.

This demand for authentic replicas extends to tiny sewing machines, layettes and bathinettes, doll cradles and cribs. Small boys get tool chests, battery-driven play drills that are completely safe and even an electric fuzz buzz shaver set.

Dolls are really sophisticated this year. Little girls have become fashion-conscious and are especially fond of the eight-inch doll with elaborate wardrobe, beauty aids and even miniature furniture sets.

Even musical toys look and sound like the real thing. Electronic organs, golden harps, pianos and vibraphones will help junior to reproduce accurately the sound of someone stepping on a cat.

Many parents will be grateful that all is not stark realism in toyland this year. There are still toy corn poppers, giant nested blocks, blackboards, puzzles and paint sets, toy animals, trikes and bikes.

Back in the realm of the realistic, toy manufacturers have reproduced enough miniature equipment to build a small highway. They've created for Christmas supply trucks and wreckers, loaders and dumpers, concrete mixers and road graders.

When you go Christmas toy shopping, remember that what fascinates you may not interest a child at all. So buy for children rather than for yourself.

Look for safety in toys. There should be no sharp edges. Or small pieces that can be dislodged and swallowed. Buy durable toys but remember that toys should be fun.

Christmas really does belong to kids this year. A toddler embraces a couple of old friends with new faces (upper left) in form of a glamorous French poodle and a bassett hound. Both are soft, stuffed and cuddly. Rock and roll enough to set any parent jumping comes in form (upper right) of new trap and drum set with leopard trim. Basic shapes and forms (lower left) help a child to learn through play. Shown here are fish and Christmas tree in cut-out form. Like father, like son. This little boy (lower right) can imitate his dad who's a power tool fan. He has his own play drill, a battery-powered device that screws and bolts down only through a steel work bench which comes with the kit. The drill also grinds, buffs and polishes.

'Get Out Of Dream World' Says Demos

Balanced Budget Or Strong Defense Becomes Question

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—The Eisenhower administration got some assorted advice on fiscal and defense planning from Democratic leaders today, including a demand that it "get out of its dream world."

But the Democrats didn't agree 100 per cent on what should be done.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) approved the administration's declared aim of a balanced budget next year, while Sen. Carroll (D-Colo) called for a little deficit spending if that is necessary to maintain full employment.

The Democratic floor leader in the House, Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, said in a statement the Republicans are evidently thinking of national defense in terms of a balanced budget.

"As between a balanced budget and a strong defense," he added, "they had better think in terms of a strong defense. We had better catch up with the Soviets in the field of intercontinental missiles within the next year. The Democrats will cooperate.

"It is about time the administration got out of its dream world and into the world of reality. If anyone thinks the Soviets will let us catch up with them if they have the advantage, they are doing a disservice to our country."

Sen. Byrd (D-Va) called for an end to waste and nonessential expenditures to make way for whatever increased spending may be necessary on modern weapons.

Father's Attempt To Save Daughter Futile; Both Perish In Fire

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Dec. 5—(AP)—A 33-year-old father rushed back into his flaming home today to rescue his 7-year-old daughter but both perished in a fire that destroyed their one-story frame home.

Lonnie B. Mason, a packing house worker, and his daughter, Mary Lou, were the victims. Mrs. Mason and two other children escaped without injury with assistance from a taxicab driver.

Firemen fought the blaze for more than three hours before the bodies could be recovered. It was not known what started the early morning fire.

The taxicab driver, Charles Finney, said he was driving by the Mason home and saw smoke coming from it.

Finney sounded his horn in alarm and radioed his office to turn in a fire alarm. He left his cab and went to the front door but was repelled by thick smoke.

Finally, Finney was able to break two windows and out crawled Mrs. Mason, carrying Janet, 16 months old, and Lionel, 8.

Rackets Boss Appears Ready to Take Over Cigarette Vending Firm

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5—(AP)—Frank Buster Wortman, reputed East St. Louis, Ill., rackets boss, appeared today to be about to take over a cigarette vending firm whose former owner was shot to death in gangland style two years ago.

Police reported that Wortman and his brother Edward Ted Wortman are buying the W-R Cigarette Co. The firm was operated by Robert L. Brown, Board of Alderman parliamentarian, at the time he was slain.

Alderman A. Barney Mueller, twenty-first ward Democrat, acquired the firm a year ago. Police said that he had accepted a postdated check from the Wortmans but Mueller said, "I have not sold the business as yet." He declined to elaborate.

The Wortmans are not new in the St. Louis coin machine business. "Buster" is a partner in the Plaza Amusement Co., a pin ball and juke box firm.

Group Recommends States Get 40 Percent Of Tax On Phone Calls

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—(AP)—A federal-state committee recommended today that the federal government kick back to the states 40 per cent of its tax on local telephone calls, so states can take over certain functions from Uncle Sam.

Federal aid programs that would be ended under the recommendation include those for most forms of vocational education and construction of municipal waste treatment plants.

The federal tax on local phone calls is 10 per cent. It now brings in about 370 million dollars a year. Under the committee proposal, states would get 148 million dollars of this.

OBITUARIES

Edward A. Burnett

Edward A. Burnett, 71, of 2512 West Main, died at 7 p.m. Wednesday at St. Luke's Hospital, Kansas City, where he had been a patient the past two months. He had been in ill health for over a year.

Mr. Burnett was born Sept. 6, 1886, at Marshfield, Wis., and moved to Sedalia in 1931, since which time he had been engaged in the meat and packing business, part of which time he resided in Kansas City. On Sept. 5, 1920, he was married to Miss Nell Chaney in Kansas City. In 1936 he built the Burnett Packing Co. plant on the West Main Street road and operated it until his retirement in 1951.

Mr. Burnett was a member of BPOE Lodge 125, Sedalia.

He is survived by: his wife, Mrs. Nell Burnett; two children by a former marriage, Frank W. Burnett, Sedalia, Route 3, and Mrs. Kenneth Groft, Marshfield, Wis.; a sister, Mrs. Ella Landt, Milwaukee, Wis.; and four brothers, Henry, Manitowoc, Wis., Harry, Rawlins, Wyo., William, Kaukauna, Wis., and John Burnett, Melrose Park, Ill.

The body was brought to the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel where funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, the Rev. Harry Purviance, pastor of the First Christian Church, to officiate.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery, with ritualistic ceremonies of the Elks at graveside.

Lee A. Peyton

Lee A. Peyton, a brother of Roy Peyton, Sedalia, died at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Kansas City where he had been a patient two weeks.

He was born in Fayetteville, Ark., and lived most his life in greater Kansas City. He was a veteran of World War I. He had been employed in the pipeline division of the Sinclair Oil Co. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Peyton of the home, and five brothers, Roger Peyton, West Line, Mo.; Neal Peyton, Chilhowee, Mo.; Roy Peyton, Sedalia, Mo.; Marion Peyton, Fort Smith, Ark., and Verne Peyton, of Kansas City.

Services will be at 1 p.m. Friday at the Newcomer Chapel in Kansas City and at 3 p.m. at the graveside in the National cemetery at Wadsworth, Kansas.

Jonas Lester Thomas

Jonas Lester Thomas, 59, of Bunceton, died Dec. 4 at his home. Death was due to a heart attack.

He was born March 14, 1898, near Pilot Grove, son of James and Mary Thomas. He was married to Sarah Molmberg in Sedalia. He was a member of Mt. Nebo Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, of the home, one son, Jewell, Bunceton, one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Nelson, Bunceton, and a brother, James Thomas Bunceton.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Mt. Nebo Baptist Church, with the Rev. Farrie Cole, Jr., Otterville, and the Rev. P. L. Allen, Pilot Grove officiating.

Pallbearers will be Lloyd Edwards, Jack Todd, Herbert Rodgers, Cloyd Merk, Kenneth Brumback and Robert Chamberlin.

The body will remain at Hays-Painter Funeral Chapel, Pilot Grove, until one hour before the service.

Burial will be in New Lebanon Cemetery.

Mrs. Lorene Harvey

Mrs. Lorene Harvey, 217 East Pettis, died at 11:40 a.m. Thursday at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born at Arrow Rock, Mo., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Harvey, and had been a resident of Sedalia the past 20 years.

Surviving are: a step-father, Sylvester Montgomery; three sons, James Green in the Army stationed at Seattle, Wash., Nathaniel Hawkins, Jr., New York, and Tommy Lee Hawkins, of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Susie May Allen, Sedalia, and Mrs. Maxine Dixon and Miss Joan Hawkins, of the home; five grandchildren; a brother, John T. Harvey, Detroit, Mich.; and other relatives.

The body was taken to the Alexander Funeral Home to await completion of funeral arrangements.

Wheat Deliveries End Lower; Others Decline

CHICAGO, Dec. 5—(AP)—Profit-taking late in the session wiped out early gains in old crop wheat futures on the Board of Trade today. All wheat deliveries ended lower, with the deferred months down a cent or more.

With the exception of oats, December corn and December rye, all other grain contracts also declined.

At the finish wheat was ⅜ to 1⅛ lower, corn ¾ lower to ½ higher, oats unchanged to ⅝ higher, rye 1½ lower to ¼ higher and soybeans ⅜ to 1¼ lower.

Largest losses in wheat occurred on the deferred July and September contracts, reflecting favorable weather and crop news from the winter wheat belt and continued prospects for a large crop in 1958.

Mitchell Unviels Labor Law Ike Will Propose

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 5 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Mitchell today unveiled the labor law program President Eisenhower will recommend to Congress, including strong measures to curb labor racketeering.

Mitchell revealed the President's labor legislation proposals in detail to the opening session of the AFL-CIO convention.

The program included provision for full disclosure of union funds and procedures, secret ballot election of union officers and tightened bribery restrictions on both labor or management money payments to influence the actions of either.

The program also calls for stronger legal bans on labor boycotts, against certain forms of picketing, and a ban on the "hot cargo" clause prevalent in Teamsters Union contracts. Under the latter clauses the union gets the employer to agree to refuse to handle materials supplied by another employer with which the union has some dispute.

Mitchell also proposed elimination of the non-Communist affidavit requirement for labor leaders under the Taft-Hartley Act. He said the administration will appose any efforts in Congress to enact a national right-to-work law or to apply the anti-trust laws to unions.

The labor secretary said the administration wor't propose and in fact will "vigorously oppose" any legislative proposal "designed to bust unions."

Sedalia Typographical

hoped that his friendship with the union would be long lasting. William Hurlbut of the Hurlbut Printing Co., told the group there was nothing that gave him as much satisfaction as working with the Typographical Union.

Harry Walch, a stockholder in the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, stated he remembered the anniversary 25 years ago at Convention Hall at which he and his father, the late Charles Walch, catered.

Miss Mary Ellen Merrill, with the Acme Printing Co., said that this company had always been a union shop even though it was started five years before the union was organized in Sedalia. Others introduced and who made brief talks were Mr. and Mrs. George H. Trader, D. Kelly Scruton, and Charles Scruton, all directors of the Sedalia Democrat - Capital; Frank Deady, Jr., of the Full Cry Magazine; Henry Shepherd, retired Democrat printer who was the head man of the anniversary celebration last time, and Mrs. Shepherd; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hendricks, Full Cry; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Buell of Windsor, Mr. Buell being a printer at Clinton; and Mrs. Inez Baker of the Sedalia Times.

The memorial service was given by O. B. Poundstone for the following members of the local who have died during the years: Charles Botz, A. G. Burton, C. S. Cotton, Ben Crummett, H. S. Frazer, L. S. Fessenden, J. P. Hurtt, S. B Kennon, D. A. Rocheford, Claude Yankee, Ed Mullaley, Miss Alice Scott and Murris Walker.

Several members, said Poundstone, have marked "30" — the printers' symbol for "the end"— after their printing careers, and have all played a great part in the printing industry, the local, and the community. No one, he said, ever gave more for a community than did Charlie Botz, holding many civic offices and giving many hours for which he never received pay but he left an imprint on the City of Sedalia. Ed Mullaley, he said, did more for labor relations with employers than any man he knew. There was a great gulf between the two, and in his quiet way Ed bridged it and created, too, better relations between members. Claude Yankee, said Poundstone, was always willing to help on anything and one of his great loves was baseball. A. G. Burton, he pointed out was always a fine member of the local and he would be proud today of his son, William A. Burton, following in the same line. Murris Walker, he said had a great dream and lived long enough to start Full Cry, which is one of the greatest animal magazines in the Midwest.

Burton then read two communications, one from J. Albert Dear, of the Sedalia Democrat-Capital, who was unable to attend the dinner, and the other from the Columbia Typographical Union, Local 160, from which representatives also could not come to Sedalia for the celebration.

Seated at the head table were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Emo, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Burton, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Poundstone, Clarence Robertson and George Espelin.

Members of the arrangements committee were Mace Ayres, William A. Burton and William C. Bergmann.

Union shops in Sedalia are Acme Printing Co., Full Cry Publishing Co., Hurlbut Printing Co., Rogers Printing Co., Sedalia Times Publishing Co., and the Sedalia Democrat-Capital Publishing Co.

Hennings Reported In Excellent Condition

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—(AP)—Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo.) was reported in "excellent" condition today after suffering a mild cerebral spasm.

A committee spokesman said the senator will remain in Beekman Downtown Hospital for a few days and then be transferred to Doctors Hospital.

• Fires In the City

The fire companies at 3:41 p.m. Wednesday, were called to the Gordon Building, Third and Ohio, office of Dr. Herbert B. Hunter, where paper in a wastepaper basket had cauht fire.

No damage resulted.

A smoking stove at the Federated Church, Sixth and Osage, caused a run by the fire companies at 7:28 p.m. Wednesday. No damage resulted.

At 9:10 p.m. the companies were called to 114 East Main, where a damper had closed and caused a stove to throw smoke into the room. No damage resulted.

Burning trash and grass caused two runs by the fire companies Thursday morning. No damage resulted. The first call was at 10:11 a.m. to a vacant lot and the next to 1413 South Prospect at 11:55 a.m.

The Sedalia Fire Co. was called to 1310 East 18th Street at 4:04 p. m. Dec. 5, where a small grass fire was reported. The cause of the fire was unknown. There was no damage.

A run by the Sedalia Fire Co. at 4:42 p. m. on Dec. 5 to 1510 South Quincy, was caused by a grass fire which was started by a trash fire. There was no damage reported.

• Other Fires

A strong wind that blew most of Thursday kept the Pettis County Fire Department on the run.

At 12:45 p. m. a brush pile that had been burned Wednesday was fanned into life and set fire to surrounding timber on the Bob Keyte farm on Highway 52 five miles west of Highway 65. The fire was extinguished before it could spread very far.

At 2 p. m. a grass fire started when ashes which had been dumped Wednesday were blown into flame by the wind, near the W. A. Ball Auto Service on South Highway 65. No damage resulted.

At 5 p. m. about 75 acres of field burned on the farms of Francis Morarity and Ed Gerken two miles east of Windsor Junction. The Cole Camp Fire Department was also summoned. The fire started from the road, possibly from a cigarette tossed from a passing car.

At 8:15 p. m. some trees near brush that was being burned in the Sedalia waterworks park southeast of town caught fire, but the fire was put out with little damage resulting.

• Police Reports

Capt. William L. Sheldrick, of Whiteman AFB, reported to the police while he was visiting in the 1000 block on South Harrison Tuesday night, someone set off two red fuses in the back yard.

Foils Couple In Robbery Attempt

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 5—(AP)—A woman grocer, small of stature, today outwitted and out-started two would-be bandits, sending them from the place without success in their attempted robbery.

Miss Lola Retherford was working in her small neighborhood grocery in the west central part of town, when a man and a woman walked in. While the woman walked through as if she was looking for something, Miss Retherford asked what she wanted.

"Honey," replied the man. He then placed his hands in the pockets of his leather jacket and announced:

"This is a hold-up."

To this Miss Retherford snapped:

"Oh, you're not going to hold me up."

To this the would-be bandit replied:

"I'm not?"

This exchange was repeated several times until Miss Retherford's sister-in-law, Mrs. Euna Retherford, walked in.

To her sister-in-law Miss Retherford called:

"Open the door. These people are leaving."

Mrs. Retherford did and the couple walked out meekly.

Benson Says Corn Crop Pushed Out of Midwest

AMES, Iowa, Dec. 5—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said tonight present farm programs have forced the Midwestern corn belt to surrender its natural advantage in feed grain production to the West, South and Northeast.

He said that under these programs, acreage diverted from cotton in the South and West and from wheat in the Great Plains and in the East have been put into oats, barley and sorghums, all competitors of corn as feed.

As a consequence, Benson said, feed surpluses have accumulated, forcing reductions in corn acreage allotments to a level where few corn belt farmers can comply with them and still operate their farms efficiently.
